It's official! A total of $8.4 million will be available by the end of this month for Granite City residents to finance home mortgages at 8 3/4 percent interest.
The Granite City Council Tuesday night gave its final approval to documents selling $10 million worth of tax-free revenue bonds to Aetna Casualty and Insurance Co. to be used for mortgages.
The money should be available to the city Thursday, Oct. 25, and will be distributed to three financial outlets, M.E. Hoffman Co., Delmar Financial Co. and First Granite City National Bank.

Those lending institutions then will begin closing mortgages for persons purchasing homes. Applications for the program still are being accepted.
The program does not have limitations on income or family size. First Wisconsin Trust Co. was named as trustee for the program. Of the $10 million in bonds Aetna will purchase from the city, $8.4 million will be used for mortgages and $300,000 will cover the costs involved in administering the program, including bond underwriting fees, attorney's fees and other expenses.

The remaining $1.3 million will go into a "reserve fund" to cover any losses which may develop through defaults, fire or other losses not covered by insurance, or other factors.
The reserve fund will be an interest drawing account, which helps hold down the cost of the program, according to the city.

Collector withdraws

In a letter received by the Madison City Council Tuesday night from the Illinois Repossession and Collection Agency of Granite City, signed by William C. Maupin, an offer to collect past due ambulance bills was withdrawn.
The council accepted the letter and permitted the firm to drop its plan to serve as the Madison collector for unpaid ambulance charges.

Madison aldermen had voted this fall to hire Illinois to handle the overdue ambulance service bills. The collector was to retain one-third of the amounts collected.

Granite City aldermen on Oct. 2 authorized their Granite City Ambulance Service committee to meet with Illinois and discuss having it handle collections in their city.

No action was taken Tuesday night by the City Council of Granite City, and it was learned Wednesday that Illinois has advised the municipality by letter that it is withdrawing its proposal.

Robbers plague confectioneries

A young man armed with a blue-steel automatic pistol with a four-inch barrel robbed Schewe's Confectionery, 2554

Grand Ave., of about $70 at 8:30 p.m. Monday.

The armed robbery was the third confectionery robbery in two days and the fourth since Sept. 25. Granite City police detectives have launched a major investigation to determine if the crimes are related.

A clerk said the man, who appeared to be in his mid-20s, entered, showed the gun and said, "Lady, this is a stickup. I won't shoot you if you give me the money."

After he got the money, he ordered the clerk to lie face-down on the floor and he fled.

He was about five feet, 10 inches tall, weighing about 170 pounds, and had blue eyes, acne scars and brown shoulder-length hair which was parted in the middle. He wore an olive green dress shirt, and blue jeans.
Chief of Detectives Robert Astorian said he believes the robberies are related. "We are working on that (Continued on Page 8)

The third annual chicken dinner and fall festival bazaar at St. John United Church of Christ, 2901 Nameoki Road will be held Sunday. Doors will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 6:30 p.m., according to Ruth McDonald, dinner chairman. Tickets for the "all you can eat" family style dinner can be obtained at the door. Members of the dinner committee are Bill Buer, Russ Chappell, Sandy Dawson, Jim Engleke, Sharon Engleke, Angie Hamilton, Marion Hamilton, Art Ringering, Helen Robertson, Leonard Schaefer, Bill Schreiber, Joanne Snyder, Barb Suess, Steve Suess and Ruth McDonald.

The committee has been working for many months in preparation for the occasion. The fall festival is an all-church activity reminiscent of church dinners held at St. John over a century ago. After harvest, the members and friends prepared a feast, much like the Pilgrims' Thanksgiving tradition.

Church members now bring homemade pies and the special items are all priced under $1.

The scent of holly and pine will be in the air at "Santa's Workshop," Mrs. Suess and Mrs. Engleke are in charge of this area. Hundreds of Christmas crafts will be on sale. Some of the items are pine cone wreaths, "quilted" wreaths, pine cone tree centerpieces, gingham, calico and felt ornaments, brooms and stockings.

Bibs, quilts, afghans and "quiet books" will be featured in the "Baby Boutique," headed by Mrs. Georgia Engleke. Many homemade crafts for infants and toddlers will be available.

St. John Emporium has been designed to interest people of all ages. "Something for everyone" has been the constant goal of all the planners, according to the committee.

New long distance telephone call plan

Open house, workshop at Parkview

Illinois Bell asked the Illinois Commerce Commission last week to approve "Pick-a-Point Service," an optional intrastate long distance calling plan to replace Selective Calling Service in its 133 telephone exchanges (local service areas) outside the Chicago metropolitan area. The new service would be offered beginning Jan. 1, 1980.

"Pick-a-Point Service" would give discounts on long distance calls to customers who make calls to exchange areas within a 28-mile radius of their local exchange area. The company said it plans to introduce the new service to standardize and simplify charges for discounted calling packages outside the Chicago area. "Pick-a-Point Service" should also benefit more customers than the existing Selective Calling Service, a spokesman said.

Residence customers who agree to a minimum bill in monthly long distance charges for each exchange select within the 28-mile radius would save up to 30 percent on their regular long distance charges. Business customers would receive the same discounts if they agree to a minimum charge of $4 monthly in long distance usage for each exchange selected.

A residence customer, for example, whose total monthly toll charges to a selected exchange area were $2.50, would save 20 percent and pay the $2 minimum. Customers with $2.86 or more of long distance usage would receive the full discount of 30 percent.

Selective Calling Service, introduced as an optional service in 1972, gives customers a half-hour of calling time to nearly monthly fee. The monthly fee depends on the number of exchanges selected and on the distance of the customer's exchange area from the exchanges being called. Any calling over the initial half hour is billed on an overtime basis.

Illinois Bell has asked the ICC to limit Selective Calling Service to existing customers on Jan. 1, 1980, if "Pick-a-Point Service" becomes available, and to discontinue Selective Calling Service on March 31, 1980.

Each member brought a sack lunch and soda, and for supper the group enjoyed fried chicken. The day was spent playing soccer, softball and kickball, boat riding and fishing.

They also went sightseeing on the seminary grounds and toured the building.

Those who went on the outing were Brother Jim Grouchy, M.S.F., director of the choir, and Jennifer Ortiz, Valerie Garcia, Donna and Kathy Haug, Carla Schutzenhofer, Michele Jarnagin, Camille Kittel, Ninette Bolin, Sheila Duff, Tina Conklin, Mary Ann DeBautz, Gretchen Mink and Bill Haug.

Strict monitoring of security guards

The Illinois Department of Registration and Education is tightening its system of monitoring the activities of security guards, particularly those who carry guns.

Involved is a classification system to provide clear identification for those who carry guns from those not so employed, as well as for those who have completed an approved course of training in firearms.

Department Director Joan G. Anderson announced plans for the new security guard classification arrangement and said, "I believe the new system will be a vast improvement over the present one because it will make it easier to identify those security guards who are authorized to carry guns."

In addition, it will impose a greater degree of departmental oversight and control.

Director Anderson said the department will be working closely with the Illinois Department of Law Enforcement in implementing the program.

Because of the need to insure that all detective agencies and security guards are informed about the new system, the department has specified Jan. 2, 1980, as the date for full implementation.

An estimated 28,000 persons currently hold blue cards issued by the department.

The cards indicate that the holder has completed an approved training course which consists of at least 30 hours of theory of law enforcement, liability for acts and the handling of weapons.

Unfortunately, the blue cards have created a problem in that they are often misconstrued as a license to carry a gun," Joan Anderson said.

"The new system will serve to clarify and update the department's registration rolls, and also provide a separate and distinct identification card to those security guards who are employed as armed guards.

"The effect will be to regroup individuals who have completed an approved firearms training course for security guards, and provide for distinctive documentation easily identifiable by both law enforcement personnel and the public."

The department will issue three documents:

1. A new Certificate of Course Completion will be issued to those who have completed an approved firearms training course for security guards. The individual will retain the certificate whether or not employed by a detective agency or an industrial or commercial security force.

2. A white card, which serves as both registration and proof of clearance of any criminal record, will continue to be issued by the department to those employed as security guards.

3. A new Armed Guard Training Card, which will be wallet-sized and tan in color, will be issued to indicate (1) the completion of the training course, (2) the security guard's name and training number, and (3) the name of the agency for whom the security guard is working.

In addition, the department emphasized, identification cards required by other governmental agencies, including a firearm owner identification card, must be carried by the security guards.

The department will stop issuing the blue cards currently in use. They will become invalid Jan. 2, 1980, the date the new system goes into full effect.

Anderson said the department will contact all detective agencies and industrial or commercial security forces and ask them to send her the names of those employees whom the employer authorizes and wishes to continue authorizing to carry a gun.

The department will mail Certificates of Course Completion to all current blue card holders. And, if authorized by the employer, the department will also mail the new Armed Guard Training Cards.

The director said the state recognizes there are in addition to full-time jobs with a licensed detective agency or industrial or commercial security force. In such cases, she said, the department will issue an additional Armed Guard Training Card for each part-time employee when the part-time employer requests it.

A white card for each part-time employee will be required, too.

Security guards are among the 100 license classifications encompassing the 32 broad-based professional and occupational groups which the department licenses and regulates.

No agreement on sewer use fees

By GARY SCHNEIDER of the Press-Record

Negotiations between Granite City and the Madison County special sewer committee on the amount users of the new Four Township Sewers will be charged for sewage treatment may be difficult negotiations, Granite City aldermen indicated during Tuesday night's city council meeting.

Second Ward Alderman Sam Whitmer said he has been reading public statements made by Louis Whitsell, chairman of the special sewer committee, which indicate the committee may be able to reach an agreement with the city on a treatment fee schedule that does not include charges for treatment plant costs the city already has paid.

Glen Sprankle, chairman of the council's treatment plant committee, has indicated he feels the city's secondary sewage treatment plant was built larger than the city needs, because it was anticipated that the facility would treat the effluent from the Four Township Sewer program. Residents of the city have paid more in bond and interest costs since the plant was built than they would have paid if a smaller plant had been built for the city's effluent only. Sprankle contends. Therefore, he believes, taxpayers of Granite City are entitled to some kind of rebate or relief for excess funds they already have paid to provide a treatment facility large enough to treat the sewerage from Nameoki, Chouteau and Venice townships as well as from Granite City.

During Tuesday night's council meeting, Mayor Paul Schuler said about Whitsell's comments, "Talk is cheap," and indicated the negotiations may be more difficult than Whitsell anticipates.

In other business, Second Ward Alderman Fred "Pat" Schuman objected to the use of 25th Street by cement trucks going from West Granite City to Madison Avenue and then to other parts of the city.

He contended the heavy trucks bounce the foundations of homes along that street and called it "an invasion of homes; a form of trespass. What are we doing here if we can't help these people?" City Attorney Lance Callis said the city had tried once before to enforce a load limit on cement trucks, but the case went to court and the city lost. He said businesses may legally violate the load limits "for local deliveries," and said the court has defined local deliveries as any deliveries within the city.

Schuman said he would like the police department to ticket a cement truck on 25th Street for a load limit violation, so the case could be tested again in court.

Callis suggested that Schuman give complaining residents blank police complaint forms and ask them to keep a record of cement trucks passing their homes, including the company and the time each truck passed.

Fourth Ward Alderman Warren Decatur responded, "Can we stop the buses, too? The answer is repairing our streets so they can carry these loads."

Thurl Jones, director of Probation and Court Services for the Third Judicial Circuit said this week, "In my 14 years Minnie has always been a help and inspiration to work with. When we ran into a problem, the entire staff could count on her helping to find a solution. She has demonstrated throughout the years the highest standards of professionalism in the criminal and juvenile justice system."

Looking back, Mrs. Sigite says, "I have made so many friends over the years and had quite a few successes. It all makes one feel good."

"Many of the girls I worked with when they were children have grown into fine young married women with fine families."

Mrs. Sigite

"And many of the girls I had to place in foster homes in my early years have turned around and helped others by becoming foster parents themselves."

"I have had a chance to work with some very dedicated people. When I started, there were only three of us and a secretary; now the department has grown to about 60 people."

"I also think a lot of the many police officers I have worked with. They have helped me over the years numerous times," Mrs. Sigite said.

She has long been the department's specialist in adoption investigation, finding foster homes and doing the investigation for the Family Court in custody disputes, as well as carrying a caseload of juvenile and adult probationers.

Mrs. Sigite and her husband, John, are members of the Nameoki United Presbyterian Church. They have three children and six grandchildren, all living in Granite City.

When asked what her retirement plans were she said, "Well I am going to relax and enjoy my family. We're going to continue to live in Granite City and we'll probably spend some time in Florida."

"You know I have been working for the second generation of judges. I used to work for Judge George Moran and now I'm working for his son."

"I worked with the late Dick Mudge in the state attorney's office and I'm now working with his son."

When asked how old she was Minnie, just smiled and said, "All the law requires me to say is that I am over 21 and I've said that before in a court of law."

Bonds sold

"The one percent difference in the rate on the bonds and the rate on the mortgages is about as low as it ever has been in this country," he said.

Granite City is among the last cities able to qualify for the low-interest mortgage bond program since it got approval "just under the wire," before the program was halted.

A bill in the U.S. House of Representatives Ways and Means Committee which would outlaw tax-free mortgage bonds made it impossible to sell the bonds for programs which had not already been approved when the bill was introduced.

Terranella said indications now from

Washington, D.C., are that the bill may fail and other cities may be able to offer mortgage programs similar to the Granite City program.

It also would be possible for Granite City to increase the amount of money available by selling more bonds, if the prohibition legislation fails.

Terranella speculated that the bill was introduced because, when tax-exempt mortgage bond programs first started, they mushroomed, growing very quickly as more and more cities took advantage of them.

"Congressmen just got a little scared, so they halted the program," Terranella commented.

Charge teen in stabbing

Randall Earl Ifland, 18, of 705 Kirkpatrick Homes, was charged with aggravated battery in an informational document from the Madison County state's attorney's office Tuesday after a young man alleged Ifland stabbed him in a car on Route 162 at State Aid Route 35 about 2 a.m. Tuesday.

Glen Mehl, 26, of 921 Niedringhaus Ave., was treated at St. Elizabeth Medical Center where 10 sutures were administered to close a cut to his right elbow and another four sutures were needed for a cut to his left thigh. He was X-rayed and was released.

Mehl told Madison County sheriff's deputies he and a friend were at a house on Lilly Court in Ponton Beach earlier, talking to a girl, when Ifland arrived and allegedly used obscene language.

He alleged Ifland refused to be quiet, so a fight between Ifland and Mehl developed, Mehl said.

Ifland then allegedly left walking toward Highway 111, and Mehl and his friend drove west to Route 162 Near State Aid 35, a man walking on the north side of the roadway flagged them down and Mehl pulled over. Mehl said he did not recognize the man due to darkness.

The man then entered the auto and said he was going to take Mehl's car, deputies were told. A scuffle ensued and Mehl and his friend tried to force the intruder out; Mehl was cut twice, he related.

Mehl's friend drove him to the medical center for treatment. A short time later, deputies picked up Ifland at Updike's service station on Route 162 and brought him to the medical center, where Mehl alleged he was the man who cut him.

Deputies said Ifland had blood on his arms and face and on a tee shirt he was carrying. A knife with a wooden handle, blood on the blade, was found in his trousers pocket, it was alleged.

Ifland was treated at the emergency room for injuries to his head and face and was released to deputies. He was held in the Madison County Jail at Edwardsville in lieu of $30,000 bond.

14-year-old girl abducted

A 14-year-old Rhodes Street girl was abducted by two men in their late 20s near her home at 6:50 p.m. Monday and was held captive in their car for about 40 minutes before being released unharmed.

The girl told authorities she was walking home when a black vinyl over white late-model four-door car with black interior stopped. A passenger got out, grabbed her arm and forced her inside and onto the front floorboard.

He told her he would hit her if she got up, so she remained on the floorboard, related. The male passenger got into the back seat and did not bother her while she was held captive.

The driver reached over and touched her repeatedly during the ride, she said. She was released unharmed in the 1300 block of Edwardsville Road and the two men then drove toward Madison.

The driver had shoulder-length blond hair and a mustache. Of medium build, he wore a white muscle shirt. The passenger was about five feet, nine inches tall, having long blond hair, acne scars and medium build. He wore a black tee shirt.

EXTINGUISH FIRE

basement started on fire and filled the house with smoke. The cause of the fire is under study. Firemen were at the scene 30 minutes.

Police were told the Davis car was stopped behind the auto of Robert Kofron, Cahokia, at a red light when the pickup truck of Paul Lance, 4769 Warnock Ave., slid on the wet pavement, striking the Davis vehicle which then moved forward against Kofron's car.

Cleveland Cox, Henry Ashauer, Oco Woods, Emmett Carragher and David John. They were escorted and presented hand-made gifts. The dining room tables and favors were in a Halloween motif. The serving committee was Rose Halbert, Beverly Benoit, Peggy Gibbons,

2 residents at GC park forum

Granite City residents either are pleased with the operation of their park district, or a bit indifferent. Only two people attended a special public meeting Monday night of the Granite City Park Board of Commissioners at the Nameoki Recreation Center.

The meeting was arranged to give residents an opportunity to comment on and ask questions about park and recreation services.

All park commissioners and board officers were on hand.

The man and wife attending, who reside on Indiana Avenue, asked questions concerning a specific incident of rowdiness that occurred at Wilson Park two weeks ago and what measures can be taken to eliminate a dust problem resulting from the unpaved parking lot outside the ice rink.

Board members said they are aware of the dust problem, but funding is not presently available to blacktop the parking area.

Certain measures are planned in the future to help alleviate the condition, they told the residents.

Pay set for school administrative staff

Granite City Board of Education members Tuesday night approved a new administrative salary list that reduces the 1978-79 cost level by $44,073 in the 1979-80 year.

Raises were given, but the district has reduced the number of administrative and supervisory positions by six.

The board voted to pay Supt. B. J. Davis $37,316 plus $2,806 pension and a $1,000 auto allowance, a total of $41,125.

Principals range in aggregate pay from $20,659 to $32,988. Other administrators will receive from $20,182 to $36,563.

A legal ruling was noted but not discussed, received from the Illinois Office of Education, it said there is no conflict in the wife of a board member working for the school system.

A $32,244 payment to Triangle Heating Co. reflected progress on an underground steam line at Granite City High School South.

Ruth Winters resigned as a Pre-School Center teacher assistant, and George Nemeth was hired as GCHS North assistant wrestling coach subject to specified conditions.

It was announced that tentative agreement has been reached with school secretaries represented by Teachers Local 743. Talks are continuing with craft workers.

Expulsion of a North student for the school year was voted by the board in a drug-related discipline case. The student will be assigned to the Granite City alternative school.

It was noted that sale of McKinley School is planned for 10 a.m. tomorrow. A board policy committee meeting was set for Oct. 23 to consider a method for review of administrators' performance.

Campus monitors are to be paid $9,250 this year, teacher assistants $4.30 an hour, and crossing guards $10 a day. Owen Humphrey, retired curriculum coordinator, was honored for his active role with the Citizens Advisory Committee.

It was decided to participate in a school lung survey. Education Week open houses will include activities at Johnson Elementary School from 7 p.m. to 8:30 p.m. tomorrow.

Federal warrant charges GC man

Fritz Foschiatti, 50, of 2515 E. 25th St., was arrested at 11:30 a.m. Tuesday by an agent of the U.S. marshal's office, accompanied by local officers, on a three-count federal warrant.

The warrant charges the Granite City man with alleged forgery of a government check, possession of a stolen treasury check and altering of a treasury check.

Foschiatti was arrested at home. He was processed at Granite City police headquarters and released to the federal officer.

He was arraigned the same day before a U.S. magistrate in Belleville and was released, the chief deputy marshal of the Southern Illinois District said Wednesday.

4-H observing Year of Child

By JAN PERKINS
Extension Adviser, Youth
Young people make up nearly one-third of the population in the United States. That accounts for nearly 66 million youth under the age of 18, notes the commission on the International Year of the Child.

Designation of 1979 as the International Year of the Child by the United Nations General Assembly has served to focus attention on children and programs for children.

Many of the commission's activities in the past few months have focused on the problems of children—such as lack of adequate diets, medical care, dental care and mental health services. Attention also has been focused on problems of child abuse, alcoholism and drug abuse.

We have been made aware of the 7.9 million handicapped youths and the 29 million children of working mothers.

We are more aware of the one million runaways, and the 77,000 children under the age of 18 who are in prison, and the ever-increasing number of teenage suicides.

But have we been aware of the 5.2 million youths in this country involved in 4-H? Have we read about how they pledge their heads, hearts, hands and health to greater loyalty, larger service and better living for themselves and their communities?

In Madison County, more than 1,503 young people between the ages of eight and 19—both urban and rural—are enrolled in 4-H. Through learn-by-doing projects and activities, these 4-H members are contributing to energy conservation, environmental improvement, community service, food production and many other areas vital to all of us.

They are also participating in valuable programs that aid youth employment and career decisions, health, nutrition and strong family relationships. Through its exchange programs with many countries around the world, 4-H also is contributing to international understanding.

Members in Madison County and around the country are telling their story to illustrate what the International Year of the Child means to them.

Upon completion of this course, they will receive Red Cross advanced lifesaving certification. The combined pool fee and book fee is $13 for the entire course.

The class size is limited. Quad-Cityans may call 876-7200 for information.

48 of 55 pass state nurse exam

When dog bites man, it's not big news. But when the tables are turned...

That was the situation last year when BAC nursing graduates were less than successful in passing the state licensure examination. And that one year's failure rate led to doubt about the efficacy of the college's associate degree program.

Now things are back to normal, and Dr. Lou Reibling, supervisor of Allied Health Programs at BAC, has announced an 87 percent passage rate for 1979 graduates taking the registered nurse licensure exams.

Fifty-five 1979 graduates took the exam and only seven did not pass it. The 97 percent rate is slightly higher than the average for the 12-year-old program, the first community college nursing education program in Illinois to be granted National League of Nursing accreditation.

Reibling, Nursing Coordinator Betty Thompson, the nursing faculty and the students say they are happy to be "back to normal" and passing the RN licensure by an overwhelming majority.

Park district continuation is endorsed by aldermen

The Granite City Council has gone on record as opposing a bill which would abolish park districts throughout the state and put counties in charge of all parks.

In a letter to the council, George H. Sykes, president of the Granite City Park District, said that House Bill 2336 "would remove from the control of local residents the services that apply to our community where our tax revenues are raised. We feel our local district knows the needs and desires of our people.

The councilmen unanimously endorsed Sykes' position and Alderman Sam Whitmer expressed the feelings of many, saying, "In Granite City we have the best parks and the best commissioners in this area. I, for one, do not want to see county politics in there.

"Granite City people are paying the tab and should have complete control of it," he concluded.

A motion by Alderman Glen Sprankle passed unanimously, putting the council on record as opposing the bill. State senators and representatives will be notified of the council's action.

theory. There may be more than one robber working together or it may be the same one," he commented.

The current series of armed robberies began Sept. 25 when Lehne's Confectionery, 2501 E. 24th St., was held up. On Oct. 13, Lehne's was robbed a second time and two hours and 15 minutes later, the Party Shop, 5429

Maryville Road, was held up. The owner reported firing four shots at a fleeing vehicle near the Party Shop, but did not know if the bullets struck the car.

In all of the cases, the robber was described as being in his early 20s, having blond or light sandy-colored hair, blue eyes and being from five feet, 10 inches, to six feet tall.

At the Party Shop, the robber was thought to have had a mustache, which led to the thought there may be more than one robber involved.

The robber at Schewe's Monday night fit the basic description, except that no mustache was noticed. "The robber did keep part of his face covered, however," Capt. Astorian said.

asked by the aldermanic committee to check on the IIMo firm. "We had not yet had a chance to investigate when we saw your articles," a department spokesman said yesterday, "and so we haven't filed a report with the committee."

The Press-Record on Oct. 8 presented the first of two investigative articles by the news staff. "Car reposessor in residential area seeking ambulance collection work."

The second article, on Oct. 11, was titled, "Collector sometimes doesn't pay what he collects."

MAN SHOT TWICE

Alton Davis, 29, of 125F Weaver St., Venice, suffered superficial wounds to his left arm and hand when he was shot at least twice in his apartment about 9 p.m. Thursday. Police learned of the incident at 9 a.m. Friday and questioned him about it, but he said he did not want to question the person responsible. After talking to police, he went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where he was X-rayed and released.

$562,000 grant will aid this area

Nelson Hagnauer, chairman of the Madison County Board, announced today that Madison County has received approval of a $562,000 grant to undertake housing-related activities in eight areas of the county.

The Department of Housing and Urban Development provided the funds as a part of its Small Cities Program.

Madison County was given the opportunity to apply for the funds, which became available unexpectedly early in June 1979.

The 1979 Small Cities application is designed to aid low and moderate income families in some of the most needy areas of the county.

There are six activities planned in eight targeted neighborhoods. All activities specifically relate to housing and housing rehabilitation.

The six activities are as follows:

1. Grants to Homeowners - This allows up to $7,500 per family for housing rehabilitation. There are income and other guidelines in order to qualify.

2. Demolition - This activity will remove abandoned, hazardous, rundown structures in certain areas of the county. The existing county demolition procedures will be used to carry out this activity.

3. Low Interest Loans to Landlords - Provides low interest loans to landlords for housing rehabilitation. Qualifications are based on benefits to low and moderate income renters.

4. Zero Interest Loans to Homeowners - This provides no-interest loans to low income, single family homeowners for housing rehabilitation.

5. Major Trash and Debris Clean Up - In the spring of next year, trash will be cleaned up and collected in certain targeted neighborhoods. In addition, large trash bins will be made available to each targeted neighborhood for a week prior to "pick-up" day.

6. Prepaid Legal Services - This activity will provide two experienced real estate attorneys to personally counsel low and moderate income persons in housing matters at no cost to the client. The attorneys will also be available at public meetings in each of the targeted neighborhoods to disseminate information about housing problems, such as title problems, rental agreements, and purchase agreements.

The list of neighborhoods targeted for Small Cities Program funds follows:

City of Venice.
Venice Township (Eagle Park)
North Venice-West Madison.
Forest Homes-Cottage Hills.
Oakwood.
State Park.
West Granite City-Old Town.
Alton: Middletown "Mexico."

25 Million Snorers Disturb Others

About one out of eight Americans snore.

This means something like more than 25 million snorers, women as often as men.

There's a good chance that there's a snorer in your family. If so, you are well aware that it's not very funny.

The assorted hisses, gurgles, buzzes, snorts and raspings of the snoring nuisance hold the seeds for the ruin of an ostensibly happy marriage. Many couples find it necessary to set up a schedule wherein one spouse tries to precede the other in sleep. Other couples proceed to separate rooms and possibly even the divorce courts.

For the most part snoring is generated while breathing either in or out during sleep by several structures in the nose and throat. The sounds are due to vibrations in the soft palate and other soft structures of the throat in response to inflowing and out-flowing air, the American Medical Association points out.

Some causes of snoring can be helped and even cured. Removal of enlarged tonsils and adenoids often cures children of snoring. A blocked nose can sometimes be corrected by minor surgery. Nasal congestion from the common cold, sinus trouble or hay fever can sometimes be relieved by medication.

Many individuals snore only when sleeping on the back, and any technique that keeps the sleeper on his or her side or face can help.

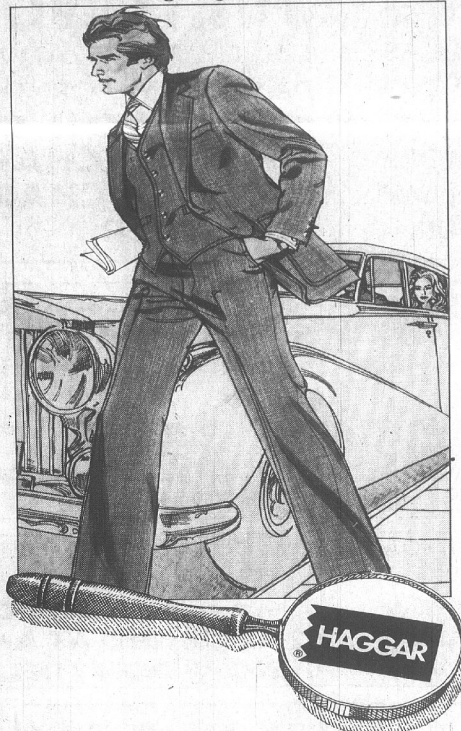

Factors that may affect the tone of the tissues of the throat include too much smoking, overwork, fatigue, obesity and general poor health. The largest group of offenders are the elderly, presumably because they lack tissue tone.

If there is a snorer in your family who is disrupting the sleep of others, send him to the family physician. Possibly something can be done. If your doctor cannot help, the listener can wear earplugs when everything else fails.

PROMOTED TO LIEUTENANT. former Madison Police Sergeant William Papa (right), receives his badge following the Tuesday evening Madison City Council meeting from Chief of Police Donald L. Bridick.

Papa promoted to lieutenant

The Madison City Council at its meeting Tuesday evening unanimously voted to approve the promotion of William Papa to the rank of police lieutenant.

The promotion was on the recommendation of the Madison Police Commission, submitted by a letter signed by Andrew Econom, secretary of the board of police commissioners.

Selection of Papa was based on results of competitive testing, according to the board.

Papa is a 15-year veteran of the Madison police department and is currently president of Madison Police Unit 110.

Lt. Papa is a member of the Police Explorer Post 104 adult committee, is past commander of Madison Amvets Post 204 and is a member of the Venice-

Madison American Legion. He graduated from St. Mary elementary school and Madison High School. He holds an associate degree in political science from Belleville Area College.

Lt. Papa and his wife, Patsy, live with their four children, Bill, Brian, Brad and Allison, at 1802 Fourth St., Madison.

The promotion became effective immediately.

It was noted by City Comptroller Albert Hudzik that the city is to receive $50,000 in housing rehabilitation program for the current year.

The money is from federal community development funds.

Approximately $100,000 was received in 1978 and about $70,000 in 1977, Hudzik said.

The money can only be used to improve low income housing and the city has a two year period to use it, he noted.

The council approved the police board's action in accepting the resignation of former police Lieutenant Richard Krieschok retroactive to April 1, 1978.

Krieschok is currently appealing his conviction on federal racketeering charges.

The council voted to study a plan to provide more parking in the Madison business district.

A report from Chief of Police Donald Bridick showed a three percent increase in crime during September 1978 compared to September 1977. Thefts increased by three, while burglaries and assault and battery cases increased by one each.

The public transportation service, connecting the campus with downtown St. Louis for the first time on a regular daily basis, connects with Fourth and Washington streets in St. Louis.

Bi-State will provide three runs to and from SIUE each weekday, making stops in East St. Louis, Collinsville, Maryville and Edwardsville. Morning buses will leave downtown St. Louis at 6:14, 7:03 and 7:33, arriving at the campus at 7:20, 8:11 and 8:41.

Afternoon buses will leave the Morris Quadrangle on Hairpin Drive at 1:50, 3:40 and 5:15, again making designated stops in Edwardsville, Maryville, Collinsville and East St. Louis enroute to St. Louis.

The buses are scheduled to arrive in St. Louis at 3:05, 4:58 and 6:30 p.m. Fares will range from 25 to 75 cents each way, depending on the distance traveled. The new service will not affect the existing campus connector bus service which provides transportation between the Edwardsville, Alton and East St. Louis university centers.

unaware of. After a few moments, a good listener can easily communicate with Jeff. The only difference in talking to him and talking to a hearing person is that you must face him when you speak. He reads the emotion in your face.

A little over four years ago, Jeff walked into the Lion's Mane Hair Design Studio and asked Fred McCollegan what he would have to do to get a job in the studio. McCollegan told the young man what the qualifications were and Stafford left.

He went back to see McCollegan this August and was hired. He has just completed the studio's required special training and is a member of the staff.

During the years between, Jeff went to school. With knowledge acquired at the Granite City School of Beauty Culture, he worked his way through Northern Illinois University at DeKalb. He earned a bachelor's degree in business and came back to Granite City.

Jeff then went to Belleville Barber College, graduating in July 1979. He felt he was ready to go back and see Fred McCollegan, and he was.

A lot for a deaf boy to accomplish?

Jeff doesn't think so. He wanted something and he went after it, just like anybody else. The fact that he can't hear has never stood in the way of what he wanted to do.

As Jeff works his chair at the Lion's Mane, his customers don't talk as much as they might with a hearing barber, but that's because they're still new customers.

Young Stafford is new on the floor, and as such he concentrates on his work. But when barber and customer get to know each other a little better, the usual chatter will most likely follow, because Jeff Stafford is a friendly young man.

He lives in Granite City with his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Newman Stafford. He has two brothers, Gregory and Timothy.

He attended the Central Institute for the Deaf in St. Louis, Marshall School, Grigsby Junior High and Granite City North.

He loves to travel and has visited 49 states and nine foreign countries.

Jeff likes disco and has little problem with music. He senses the instruments of a loud band even though he cannot hear the singer. He feels the vibration of the beat and loves to dance.

He's like any of us who enjoys life. The only difference is that where the rest of us hear, Jeff Stafford feels. And that's no handicap.

The YMCA open house is available to all community residents and will offer complete information concerning "Y" programs during the two-hour visitation.

He said he was struck on the nose and was pushed against a wall. He was transferred to Firmin Desloge Hospital, St. Louis.

Leo Furtak Jr., 30, of the same address, went to the emergency room at 1:10 a.m. Wednesday and said he was struck on the right side of his head. He declined to be admitted, but underwent X-rays.

Preceptors portray the cardinal virtues of DeMolay—filial love, reverence, courtesy, comradeship, fidelity, cleanliness and patriotism in the initiatory degree.

The following were installed as junior line preceptors: Richard Petrich, Jeffrey Hendon, Christopher Worthen and Robert Favier.

The installing team was headed by Charles E. Hileman Jr. as installing officer.

Others were: Norman E. Burgess Jr., installing senior counselor; Hiram B. Ables, installing junior counselor; Robert F. Maxwell, installing marshal; Kelly D. Smith, installing chaplain; and David M. Epping, installing senior deacon.

Before the officers were installed, James DeCourcy presented to the chapter, through the three counselors and chaplain, a satin robe for each and a full set of 21 office cords and jewels.

The gift was presented by the family, Mr. and Mrs. John DeCourcy, a son and brother.

Robert was a past master counselor and a chevron and had attended a leadership conference in Potosi, Mo., in 1976. He was in the Air Force overseas when killed while a passenger in an auto in December 1973.

As the installation started, the installing officer had Robert Maxwell, installing marshal, conduct the chapter's sweetheart, Miss Lea Ann Baker, to the east, where she was introduced by Hileman and, where she presided. Lea Ann is also senior princess of Job's Daughters Bethel 43.

Introduced and selected David Medley as "DeMolay of the Term," and presented him with a trophy.

The International Supreme Council, Order of DeMolay, awarded a 100 percent of membership goal ribbon for the chapter.

Keith Monahan, who accompanied Mrs. Milliken and played for the installation marching; Mrs. Gema Fox, honored queen of Bethel 43; Job's Daughters, who introduced her officers and choir members; and congratulated the officers.

Also, Mrs. Becky Steel, guardian of Bethel 43, who also complimented the new officers; Marty Love, associate guardian of Bethel 43; Wendell Giritz, worshipful master, Granite City Masonic Lodge 877.

Edward Lane, most illustrious grand master of the Grand Council of Royal and Select Masters of the State of Illinois; Mark Mathus, District 16 master counselor; Bryan Klaus, past state junior counselor; Illinois Order of DeMolay; and Howard Klaus, deputy, District 16, Illinois Order of DeMolay.

DeMolays from Alton, Edwardsville and Jerseyville were recognized.

David Medley, escorted Mrs. Anita Harley, David's mother, to the altar, where Harley presented her with an arm bouquet of roses and thanked her for help and guidance. He then introduced other members of his family, clatates and the Rev. Donald Clark of the Mount Zion Baptist Church.

The master counselor introduced Mrs. Martha Simpson as president of the Mothers' Club and asked the installing marshal to conduct her and the Mothers' Club members in attendance to the east.

Mrs. Simpson remarked that she was pleased to present on behalf of the Mothers' Club a full set of 21 official DeMolay robes made of black tulle with red lining, which the officers other than the counselors and chaplain were wearing for the first time.

She said the gift represented several years of fund raising by the Mothers' Club and expressed appreciation for those members, officers and friends who had made the gift possible. The mothers were given a standing ovation by the chapter, thanked them.

The chapter advisor, Charles Meyer, presented a past master counselor's jewel to the junior past master counselor, Bard Lane.

Lane then presented David Harley with a master counselor's pin and announced the installation of David Medley as "DeMolay of the Term," and presented him with a trophy.

The International Supreme Council, Order of DeMolay, awarded a 100 percent of membership goal ribbon for the chapter.

Keith Monahan, who accompanied Mrs. Milliken and played for the installation marching; Mrs. Gema Fox, honored queen of Bethel 43; Job's Daughters, who introduced her officers and choir members; and congratulated the officers.

Also, Mrs. Becky Steel, guardian of Bethel 43, who also complimented the new officers; Marty Love, associate guardian of Bethel 43; Wendell Giritz, worshipful master, Granite City Masonic Lodge 877.

OK light rail study

The Bi-State Development Agency's board of commissioners has approved study of a light rail transportation system, according to Gerald A. Rimmel, chairman. The proposal was originally made by Congressman Robert Young.

The contract for the feasibility study will go to Daniel, Mann, Johnson and Mendenhall (DMJM), who were previously involved in development of the St. Louis mass transit program for the East-West Gateway Coordinating Council.

The light rail study will perform nine analytical tasks designed to fully assess the impacts of the project. The areas are 1) developing goals and objectives acceptable to the community, 2) analysis of engineering concerns including environmental aspects, 3) projecting probable usage, 4) determining the effect on the bus system, 5) estimating costs and revenues, 6) assessing costs and benefits as they relate to the bus system, 7) developing a financial plan to meet costs, 8) developing a plan to involve the community, and 9) preparing a final report and recommendation to the board.

The $24,145 study will take 22 weeks to complete. DMJM has formed a consortium of six firms including the St. Louis firm of Peckham, Guyton, Albers & Viets, the Fleming Corp. and Modern Urban Systems Technology. Minority firms will receive 22 percent of the total contract.

Rimmel emphasized that "approval was for the study only, and the board will not make any decisions on implementation plans until they are completed."

The Rev. Donald Clark gave the benediction, followed by "forming of the cross" by the Job's Daughters. Refreshments were served in the dining room by the Mothers' Club and there was dancing and listening to the music of "Departure."

HEMLOCK BURGLARY Items valued at more than $800 were stolen from the home of Ivica Sajfar, 2522 Hemlock Ave., it was reported Monday.

Entry was gained by entering a garage and using a hammer to break a window into the house. Taken were a black and white television, two or three record albums, a stereo, two speakers, a turntable, a camera and a diamond ring.

Salaried board members less active than those on per diem

The 14 Madison County Board members on per diem attended a total of 56 meetings in September than did their 14 colleagues who are on straight salaries.

The salaried members attended collectively, a total of 114 meetings, at a cost of $6,416; the per diem members were at 170 meetings at a total cost of $6,760 to taxpayers.

That figures out to $56 per meeting for those on salaries. The per diem group receives $40 a meeting, but also pay for additional meetings held the same day.

The question of flat salaries versus the old per diem method is expected to come up again next month when the County Board decides whether to change the remaining 14 members to salaries.

The finance committee will recommend one or the other method at the November County Board meeting when the budget for the new year is presented. Last year, the board voted $5,500 per year flat salaries ($458 per month) to the half of its membership elected Nov. 7, 1978. These members receive the pay whether or not they attend committee meetings. The other half was to remain on $40 per meeting attended until the 1980 election.

Fred Dalton, Collinsville, a member of the finance committee, says some board members dissatisfied with the flat salary may push for a continuation of the per diem method.

The figures for September illustrate the two sides to the argument: The per diem method appears to be costing the taxpayers more, but also more board members on per diem appear to be taking an active part in county government.

Proponents for straight pay for everyone said unnecessary meetings would be eliminated when the $40 incentive wasn't there.

Dalton says he likes the idea of flat salaries but doesn't consider them fair because the state legislature hasn't put in a penalty for not showing up at meetings.

If he were betting on the outcome, though, Dalton would predict that the board will choose straight salaries.

Per diem has been a controversial issue in Madison County, receiving frequent potshots from the media, and many think straight salaries will be chosen to eliminate that stigma, even though it may encourage and reward "lazy board members."

September figures show that cost per meeting varied sharply among the ranks of the 14 salaried board members.

Dalton, for example, one of those on a flat salary, attended 23 sessions in September. At $458 per month, he was paid almost $20 per meeting.

At the other end of the scale, James Heil, Godfrey, attended three legislative meetings, at a cost of $152.77 per meeting.

The finance committee has a number of extra meetings in the fall, when working on the county budget. Dalton attended the September board meeting, six right-of-way committee meetings, four personnel committee meetings, 11 finance committee meetings and one executive committee meeting.

The cost per meeting for the other 12 salaried board members figures out this way for September:

—Donald Dreith, Alton, four meetings, $114 per meeting.

—William Haine, Alton, Morris Miles, Mitchell, Daniel Partney, Granite City, attended meetings each, $91.66 per meeting.

—Louis Whitsell, Nameoki, six meetings, $76.

—George Schmittling, Roxana, Rodrick, Baude, Venice, each seven meetings, $65 per meeting.

—Anthony Bosch, Wood River, Jack Griffin, East Alton, each nine meetings, $50.

—Herschel Beane, Godfrey, and S. Harold Roberts, Alton, each 10 meetings, $45.

—William Webb, Granite City, 11 meetings, $41.66.

Of the 14 members receiving $40 per diem per meeting, Charles Bode of Edwardsville topped the list in September with 17 meetings, for $680.

Homer Henke, Moro, and Donald McLean, Edwardsville, each attended 14 meetings, for $560. Herbert Milton, Granite City, attended 16 meetings but two were on the same day as others, for $560.

Homer Boothman, State Park, attended 14 meetings; two came on the same day. His total was $520.

The others: Richard Worthen, Alton, and Jack Frandsen, Alhambra, 13 meetings, $520. O. A. Weindel, Highland, 16 meetings, for the same day as others, $480.

William Little, Alton, Arthur Moore, Madison, and Mike Semanin, Maryville, 11 meetings, $440. (Little actually attended 13 meetings; Semanin, 12.) Lawrence Speelman, Troy, and Frank Vivod, Collinsville, nine meetings, $360. (Vivod had a total of 10, one the same day as another.)

Rodger Elbie, Wood River, eight meetings, $320.

Trailriders end their '79 season

The Trailriders Saddle Club concluded its 1979 riding season last week with a Fun Show at the club arena on Chouteau Slough Road, near the Chain of Rocks Canal levee.

The final afternoon show also featured presentation of trophies and ribbons to the champion and reserve champion of each competitive event.

Champions and runnersup were determined by points accumulated during the season.

Kathy Bargar, secretary, said club officers and members voiced appreciation to area residents who came to the arena and viewed the shows throughout the spring, summer and fall months.

"We hope to see everyone again next year," she added.

In last week's competition, four members of one family achieved seven first place awards, with the mother and two children each winning two events.

Mrs. Ginger Bowman, riding Z-Bar, scored victories in the senior poles and senior barrels races.

Her daughter, Janetta Bowman, won the pony poles and pony barrels, riding Charlie, and her son, Mike Bowman, captured top honors mounted on Little Buddy in the junior poles and junior barrels.

The father, Danny Bowman, won the open flag race, riding Ruby.

Sandy Stark on Zipper's Zero also was a double winner, taking first place in the open bareback pleasure and open western pleasure.

Other horsemen winning events, with the rider, event and mount listed in sequence, were:

Kathy Reuter, ladies western pleasure, Hank Five; Lloyd Heiney, gaited country pleasure, Midnight Moon.

Dennis Hudson, senior plug race, Yogi Bear; Cathy Fowler, ladies gaited country pleasure, Black Beauty.

Bill Schneidewind, fox-trotting, Tennessee Buck; and Lori Davis, junior plug race, Sugar Babe.

Trailriders' members will meet Nov. 13 to elect officers for 1980.

IN FAIR CONDITION

Otilio Valencia, 56, of 1702 Bremen Ave., was reported in fair condition this week at St. Elizabeth Medical Center following surgery. He suffered a skull fracture and broke his right shoulder and right ribs when he fell from a crane at Granite City Steel, hit his head on a rail coupling and fell into a pit.

Granite City Fire Department Rescue workers had to extricate him and he was taken by a Granite City ambulance to the medical center for surgery.

Arrest 5 in tavern fight

Two young men were injured and five were arrested in what police called an "out of control" fight in Sammy's Tavern, 921 Niedringhaus Ave., at 11:40 p.m. Friday.

When police arrived, owner Leo Nighoghossian said he wanted everyone out and would sign complaints against those arrested, officers said. Seven policemen were required to quell what police said was "a large unruly crowd of youths" inside.

Most complied with orders to leave, but some remained behind, fighting and refusing to leave, it was alleged.

Police noticed Kurt W. Seba, 18, St. Louis, was bleeding from a cut to his head. He alleged Matthew M. Scanlon, 22, of 1725 Maple Ave., struck him with a pool cue. Scanlon said Seba first poured a drink on him, but denied striking Seba with the cue. Both were charged with disorderly conduct and were taken to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where Scanlon was admitted for bruises to his head, left cheek and both eyes. He said he was kicked during the fight.

Seba was treated for head cuts and was released to police.

Also arrested at the tavern were Terry W. Palmisano, 19, Spanish Lake, Mo., Mike L. Perrone, 20, St. Louis, and Gary L. George, 20, of 1741 Walnut St., all charged with disorderly conduct.

Restoration of homes continuing

The Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society annual potluck dinner held at the YMCA marked the first meeting of the 1979-80 season, and on Oct. 12 the first general membership meeting was held in the home of Ralph and Ladonna Walden.

The group is a non-profit corporation of property owners and residents dedicated to restoration and improvement of the downtown residential neighborhood.

Goals are community improvement within the neighborhood, encouraging restoration of homes within the neighborhood, participating in neighborhood beautification, fostering civic pride, and developing a cooperative attitude between citizens of the neighborhood and the city government.

The Downtown Neighborhood Restoration Society first adopted organizational bylaws in the spring of 1973.

Since the spirit of the society was to promote old-fashioned neighborliness within the community, it was decided to concentrate on a given area. The boundaries agreed upon were Madison Avenue, 24th Street, Adams Street and Niedringhaus Avenue.

Next meetings are held on the second Friday of each month at 8 p.m. in members' homes.

Programs vary from month to month, but many include discussions on home restoration and improvement, plus various demonstrations and guest speakers.

Mothers' group to confer at Urbana

The thirteenth annual fall conference of the Mothers Association at the University of Illinois at Urbana-Champaign is scheduled for Friday and Saturday, Oct. 26 and 27, at the Illini Union, Urbana.

This weekend is open to all interested persons, especially officers, county and regional chairwomen, and other interested mothers to meet with staff, faculty and students, discuss current issues and policies, and plan for future activities of the association.

This year's Conference is again called "U and I for the U of I." It will feature interaction between the conferees and Vice-Chancellor for Student Affairs Stanley R. Levy and his staff. Conferees are being encouraged to voice any questions they have regarding career development and placement, McKinley Health Center, student financial aid, university residence halls, and the services of the Dean of Students office.

A bus trip is scheduled for Saturday morning to visit and tour the university's conference center, Allerton House and Park in Monticello. A Saturday luncheon back at the Illini Union will conclude the conference.

The Mothers Association Cookbook is a major fund-raising project of the Mothers Association, to pay for new uniforms for the Marching Illini Band.

Reservations are required for the conference. Mrs. Ruth Andrews of Granite City, treasurer and member of the board of directors, may be contacted for further information at 931-2022 or 931-4223.

Her daughter, Crystal Andrews, is a junior at the university.

Mrs. Jane Thompson, wife of Gov. James Thompson has been invited as the Mothers Association's special guest for the fall conference.

The Lighter Side

By CATHEY JAMISON
Press-Record Feature Editor

Observations on ratings (1 to 10)

I've been hearing a lot of noises lately about the way the gentlemen rate the ladies. This is usually done on a scale from one to 10. I figure I'm a 2.5.

The requirements for a 10 rating are so incredibly high that I can only wonder what Mother Nature had against me when she caused me to be born a 2.5.

Seen the movie "10"? I haven't and I don't intend to; too depressing. I understand from some of my friends that the star of that movie is an 11. Yuk.

I'm too thin, my nose is too big and my mother dresses me funny. I have to wonder how the 10s do it. If it's something one is born with, I'm out of luck. If it's something that can be acquired, there may be hope. I can't see myself jogging, swimming or exercising in order to advance my number, so I get a .5 in the "beautiful figure" category. And plastic surgery is out of the question; too expensive. And besides, what would I do without my "personality"? You know, the old spazola? .5 for good looks.

I get another .5 for clean hair. I do manage to wash it every day and get it out every two months or so, despite my hectic schedule. I have always thought I dressed okay. But when I'm out and about I see the 10s and I know there is a lot lacking in my wardrobe. I point for my black jumpsuit, the only thing I own that might make the grade.

That adds up to 2.5. What can I say?

When you've got it, you've got it, and when you haven't...well, at least there's no pressure at the bottom.

I'm relatively content to be a 2.5. I don't have to worry about being in style and I don't have to wear those awful four-inch heeled shoes.

I don't have to spend a lot of money on body building, nose jobs and clothes. I can spend that money on furnace filters, laundry baskets and car repairs.

But just once I'd like to hear it, just once. How sweet it would be!

"There goes a 10."

Meet on students' finances

A "mini workshop" concerning available student financial aid programs for college students is scheduled in the Mississippi-Illinois Room of the University Center at Southern Illinois University at Edwardsville. Sessions will be held Oct. 25 from 8:30 a.m. to 3:30 p.m., and Oct. 26 from 9 a.m. to 2 p.m.

This is the first year the Illinois State Scholarship Commission, American College Testing, College Scholarship Services, and Bureau of Student Financial Assistance Training Project have combined their training programs into one workshop. High schools, colleges and community agencies are being encouraged to send representatives. All sessions are free of charge; parking is available in the visitors' lot. Reservations are encouraged before Oct. 19, although participants may register the day of the workshop. Additional information may be obtained by contacting John Jenetten at 692-3880.

Registration for college starts soon

Registration for Belleville Area College spring classes will start on the main campus on Oct. 29. Students are presently being prepared, and are expected to be distributed on the campus on that date. They will be mailed to all homes in the BAC district beginning the week of Nov. 19. Telephone registration is scheduled for Nov. 26 through Dec. 7.

Students who plan to enroll for the spring semester are being encouraged to register as soon as possible after Oct. 29 to be assured of getting the classes they want.

GC Steel Women visit winery

The Granite City Steel Women's Association convened last week at Bardheier's Winery, St. Louis, for its October dinner meeting.

Seventy-three members and guests traveled by bus to the winery, departing from the Granite City Steel general office building at 5:45 p.m. Mrs. Kathleen Murphy offered the invocation prior to a buffet dinner.

A tour of the winery was followed by a visit to the hospitality room, where various wines were made available for sampling. Prizes were won by Jeanette Manlove and Barbara Klepic. Vivian Flaughter, association president, conducted a business meeting and announced plans for next month's dinner. The group will meet Nov. 13 at Romine's Restaurant on Riverview Drive, St. Louis, with a clairvoyant scheduled as guest speaker.

TWO-AND-A-HALF WEEKS OF FREE GROCERIES

HELP TO OVERRIDE GOVERNOR THOMPSON'S VETO OF HB 2564

An override means immediate tax relief. Every family would save over two-and-a-half weeks of groceries annually. Senior citizens would save more than $100. Figure your savings. Think how much that would mean to your family budget.

HELP WIN TAX RELIEF

Why? We need tax relief now. Governor Thompson promised it, but then he vetoed the only tax relief bill passed by the Illinois General Assembly. With Illinois collecting more revenue than it needs, there is a surplus of several million dollars. Illinois can afford immediate tax relief.

How? Immediately contact your state legislators and urge them to override the Governor's veto of HB 2564. A vote to override will be a vote to abolish the state sales tax on food and medicine. It will save you money the state does not need.

When? Act now. The General Assembly will vote on the Governor's veto in mid-October.

National BPW Week program

National Business and Professional Women's Week starts Sunday and continues through Sunday, Oct. 28, with the Granite City BPW Club arranging several activities for the week.

A contingent of local BPW members is planning to begin the celebration Saturday by attending a BPW Tea at the Mitchell Museum in Mount Vernon, Ill., from 2 p.m. to 4 p.m., and a dinner at Mount Vernon Holiday Inn at 6:30 the same night.

On Sunday, local BPW members also have been invited to attend 10 a.m. church services in Mount Vernon with Illinois BPW President Wilma Harpole, preceded by a breakfast buffet from 8 until 9:30 a.m.

Representatives of the local club will attend a meeting of the City Council at the City Hall in Granite City on Tuesday, Oct. 23, and plan to join St. Louis BPW members for dinner at the Stadium Club in St. Louis Thursday, Oct. 25.

Senior residents at the Anchorage housing complex will be entertained by club members with style show, music and refreshments Friday evening, Oct. 26, starting at 6:30.

Sunday, Oct. 28, will find Granite City BPW members at Bill Burns Cafeteria for breakfast at 9 a.m., and attending services at 11 a.m. at First United Presbyterian Church, Third and Ewing, Madison, with BPW President LaVelle Stephens.

The Rev. Charlotte Zachary, a member of the Granite City BPW Club, is pastor of the church.

A delegation of local members is expected to take part in a weekend get-together at the Illinois Beach Resort on the lake front at Zion, Ill., Oct. 27 and Oct. 28. The event has its theme, "Up and Away and Follow the Wilma K."

Granite City Mayor Paul Schuler this week signed a formal document proclaiming the week of Oct. 21 through Oct. 27 as National Business Women's Week.

The document reads in part:

"Working women constitute 43 million of the nation's work force, and are constantly striving to serve their communities, their states and their nation in civic and cultural programs. Major goals of the business and professional women are to help create better conditions for business women through the study of social, educational, economic and political problems; to help them be of greater service to their community; and to further friendship with women throughout the world."

"All of us are proud of their leadership in these many fields of endeavor."

"I, Paul Schuler, mayor of Granite City, urge all citizens in the Granite City area, all civic fraternal groups, all educational associations, all news media and all other community organizations to join in this salute to working women by encouraging and promoting the celebration of the achievements of all business and professional women as they contribute daily to our economic, civic and cultural purposes."

LUTHERAN DINNER

Stops here during walk across nation

By MICK STRANGE

Bill Smith was right on time as he crossed the McKinley Bridge at 10:30 a.m. Monday in his 4,000 mile "walk for life."

Smith, 30, from San Diego, Calif., is attempting to walk about 4,000 miles and be in Washington, D.C., by Jan. 22 in time for the anniversary of the U.S. Supreme Court's abortion decision.

On his arrival in Washington, Smith will disengage himself from the organized right-to-life movement and, in an act of civil disobedience, plans to picket the Supreme Court as his personal protest against the Court's abortion decision.

He will be asking the American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) to defend him if he is arrested, but says he has little hope of winning in the courts.

Smith said, "Abortion represents the biggest outrage against human and civil rights ever known to man."

He is accompanied by an auto containing other men who said they were also volunteers in the right-to-life movement.

Traffic was hampered on the bridge by Smith, as bridge authorities were not notified of his walk.

Although walking is normally not permitted, he was allowed to cross the bridge with the Venice police escorting him.

Although the bridge officials were not notified, news media were and several television stations were represented.

The volunteers with Smith gave out biographical material on him and carried news clippings of writeups from other cities and states.

He was born in Amboy, Ill., and said as a youth he visited Mr. and Mrs. Earl Kahle, former operators of Kahle Hardware in downtown Granite City.

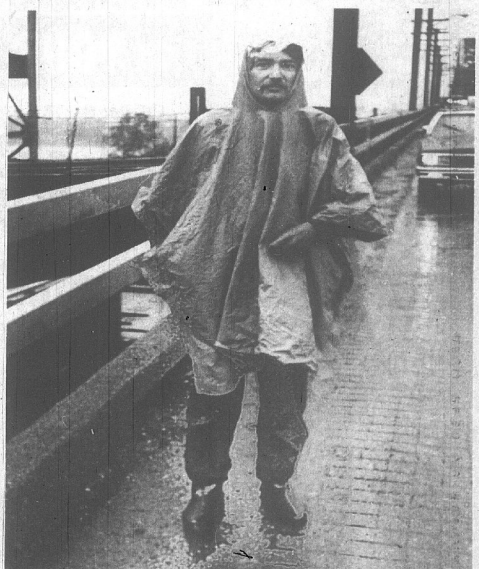

He attended the University of Illinois and Illinois State U., but did not earn enough credits to attain a degree.

Smith said, "For the first time in my life, in January, I took an honest look at myself. Most of my friends are in favor of it."

"I have no religious motive. I see the issue as, are we killing babies or aren't we? I feel my life started at conception. We are killing one and a half million babies a year and this makes it the worst violation of civil and human rights ever known."

"When I decided to do something I sold my car, got $1,500 and contacted the local anti-abortion group. Then the national right-to-life people contacted me," Smith said.

The national anti-abortion group has been coordinating his route and whom he is staying with at night, in cooperation with each state organization.

Smith, on Monday, was on his way to Alton where he would spend the night. He is to be in Springfield by Saturday and his schedule calls for him to be in Chicago by Nov. 2.

His Illinois walk is being coordinated by John Henry, public relations director for St. Mary's Hospital in East St. Louis.

Smith remarked that he and most of his friends were active in the student protests of the 1960s.

He related that one day he decided to go over and picket the country of Cambodia.

His attempt to do this was frustrated by the Thailand government, but on the way home he related he managed to stay two weeks in refugee camps.

"How am I reading what's happening to those refugees over there? I consider it very much a right-to-life, pro-life issue."

At age 30, Smith does not know what the future holds for him, nor does he have any plans beyond next January. But he feels he is in the midst of aiding a vital cause, and that the hardships of a cross-the-nation walk from California to Washington, D.C., are justified by the importance of the issue.

Freemans mark 25th wedding anniversary

A dinner and reception was arranged by Miss Cynthia Marie Freeman to honor her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Paul (Agnes) Freeman, 3419 Lydia Lane, on their 25th wedding anniversary.

The formal dinner was held at the Missouri Athletic Club in St. Louis.

The couple was married Oct. 17, 1954 in Madison at the Holy Trinity Bulgarian Eastern Orthodox Church by the Very Rev. Father Kiril Antonoff.

Mrs. Freeman is the former Agnes M. Gitcho. Mr. and Mrs. Freeman are the owners of Busy Bee Bakery in Madison.

They renewed their marriage vows as the Rev. Eugene A. Cope of City Temple presided before an altar and arch decorated with blue and white daisy poms, silver leather leaves and baby breath.

Musical selections were sung during the ceremony by the Rev. Charles Adams, Mrs. Carla Pulliam and Carl Holm.

Songs were "You and Me Against the World," "Through it All," "To God Be the Glory," and the Lord's Prayer.

Trumpet selections of "I Love You Truly" and "The Anniversary Song" were played by the Rev. John Polizzi.

More than 450 family members and close friends had gathered for the event. Guests were seated at round tables which held hurricane centerpieces of daisy poms, silver leaves and candles.

At each table was a traditional loaf of bread, which was broken and shared by each guest to signify love, happiness and good health.

A six-tiered fountain anniversary cake was centered in the room. The anniversary cake was designed by Mr. and Mrs. Freeman. Mrs. Freeman also decorated their wedding cake.

During the evening, Cynthia, their only child, presented to her parents a plaque in honor of their anniversary.

Trio provided musical selections during the dinner hour.

A toast to Mr. and Mrs. Freeman was given by John Goulais, the best man attending the couple 25 years ago.

Also present were other members of the 1954 wedding party, Loretta (Kelio) Hylla, Mildred Hordesk, Frances Ayvides, Mary Ann (Gitcho) Hussman, Henrietta (Wheatley) Elcher, Kathy (Crawford) Anson, Irving Carroll Simmons, Maurice Norton, Douglas Niles, John Goulais, William Klysheff and James Barry Stuart, Jr.

Miss Dima Lynn Georgieff, a niece, presided over the guest book and presented each guest with a scroll.

The original wedding pictures were shown on slides during the evening by their nephew, Edward Thomas Georgieff.

The "Golden Greeks" orchestra played traditional selections for dancing during the evening.

The parents of Mr. and Mrs. Freeman are Mr. and Mrs. Thomas John Gitcho, Madison, and Mrs. Elizabeth Freeman, Cutler, Ill.

Among the out-of-town guests were: Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Freeman, Hardy, Ark.; Mrs. Henrietta Eicker, Richmond, Va.; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Georgieff and Dima and Edward of Canton, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. John Goulais, Jefferson City, Mo.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Colbas of Peoria, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Henry Husmann, Kelly, Christie and Fred of Jerseyville, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Claude King and Lisa of Piper City, Ill.; Mr. and Mrs. Ed Roberts and Susan of Topeka, Kan.

Mr. and Mrs. Leon Stephens and Marsha of Steelville, Mo.; Mrs. Dorothy Moskoff of Redwood City, Calif.; and Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Monteith of Fort Lauderdale, Fla.

Auxiliary forms emergency group

The Mitchell Volunteer Firemen's Ladies Auxiliary formed an emergency committee at its meeting last week at the Mitchell Fire Department.

Named to serve with the new group were Ruth Richardson, auxiliary president, and Cathy Copper and Shirley Lamb.

pledge of allegiance and auxiliary prayer.

She welcomed a new member, Vicki Dawdy.

Secretary Earlene Lee called the roll and a financial report was given by Madeen Cook.

Also in the business session, Debbie Sander was appointed historian and public relations chairman.

Most of the time was spent finalizing plans for the auxiliary's bake sale and bazaar, which was held during the weekend in conjunction with an open house at the Mitchell fire station.

Refreshments were served by Paula Turner to those named and to Sue Reinhardt.

County GOP showing signs of life that can benefit all

No, it's not 1980. And that meeting in Edwardsville, Mo. Monday night wasn't a national nominating convention. But there were placards and straw hats and campaign slogans in abundance as Madison County Republicans rallied around their election banner and made plans to "pull themselves up by their bootstraps."

The party has been down in terms of numbers and organizational structure for many years. But it is showing considerable signs of life these days and that can benefit all citizens. Democracy and government seem to function best when there are two viable parties, offering true alternatives to voters.

Calling for "a fighting image," Dr. Edward Ragsdale, county GOP chairman, outlined plans to revamp the party along the format of the DuPage County Republican organization. With nearly 120 precinct committee voting, the plan was adopted.

Adherents of Ronald Reagan for president showed they have the most strength in the county GOP these days. This time, guest speaker Thomas Curtis, a former congressman, alleged "selective

Court will take new look at its support of secret trials

Press-Record Bureau — Civil libertarians can only be heartened by the U.S. Supreme Court's decision to hear a new case involving the right of trial judges to close judicial proceedings to the press and public.

The court's shocking 5-4 ruling in July granted judges virtual carte blanche to close preliminary hearings, where fully 90 percent of all criminal cases are resolved. In short order the ruling led to more than 50 instances in which judges acted to close their courtrooms during criminal case proceedings.

Most of these actions were taken at the preliminary hearing stage. But the ambiguous wording of the court's July decision left some judges with the impression that a precedent had been established for conducting whole trials behind closed doors.

It was just such a case involving a closed murder trial in Virginia that prompted lawyers for two Richmond newspaper reporters barred from the courtroom to appeal to the Supreme Court.

The court is to hear arguments in the Virginia case next January, after which it will decide whether to clarify, or perhaps reverse, its July decision.

Those who value a free press the public's right to know, and the obvious virtues of an open criminal justice system, favor a clean reversal of the court's prior ruling. We fervently join in this hope.

But short of that, the Supreme Court should at least refine and clarify its position. As it is, even the court itself is in doubt over whether its decision applied only to preliminary hearings or to trials as well.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger has said the decision affected only preliminary hearings. Justice A. Blackmun, who dissented from that ruling, believes the decision also granted judges the right to close trials.

No wonder lower court judges are confused. This sort of confusion can only serve to compound the damage already done to the Sixth Amendment rights they see in their view, require a judicial system free of secrecy and the abuse of justice that secrecy encourages.

ONK'S DRIVE-IN LIQUOR IS QUICKER!

Wall Street Journal — Financial markets greeted the Federal Reserve anti-inflation package with a week of turbulence.

Stock fell sharply, rallied to cut the loss Wednesday afternoon and then drifted nervously to close a bit down.

Bonds did even worse with an abortive rally Thursday morning falling to halt a breathtaking slide. Gold and the dollar have seen-sawed violently. It is a time for patience.

The fall in stocks is being explained with that most conventional of all conventional wisdoms, that high interest rates are bad for markets.

No doubt this is in some sense part of the explanation. Certainly, when short-term rates jump, margin positions are likely to be sold out.

But this homily, with its emphasis on the short-term costs of curbing the recent runaway growth in money and credit, can also be a dangerous lesson.

If we as a nation or the Fed as a central bank concludes that ending inflation is more painful than continuing it, we will be following in the footsteps of the Weimar Republic.

It seems to us more profound to say that the markets have been debating with themselves over whether to believe that this time the Fed means what it says.

I am personally distressed at the pressure the courts have brought to bear on law enforcement officers. Not only do they have to painstakingly observe the criminal "rights" but must bog themselves down with legal paperwork.

Then, many times, a criminal is released on a legal technicality. I feel, sometimes, the laws are to protect the criminal rather than the victim, and those same legal technicalities make the policeman's job almost an impossible task.

Let's face it. Simply to join the police force is courageous. So I implore you, Supreme Court, man-in-the-street, extremist, Congressman and "all" people, to support the policeman; or, if nothing else, have a better attitude. They are there for our benefit.

Wall Street Journal — Financial markets greeted the Federal Reserve anti-inflation package with a week of turbulence.

Stock fell sharply, rallied to cut the loss Wednesday afternoon and then drifted nervously to close a bit down.

Bonds did even worse with an abortive rally Thursday morning falling to halt a breathtaking slide. Gold and the dollar have seen-sawed violently. It is a time for patience.

The fall in stocks is being explained with that most conventional of all conventional wisdoms, that high interest rates are bad for markets.

No doubt this is in some sense part of the explanation. Certainly, when short-term rates jump, margin positions are likely to be sold out.

But this homily, with its emphasis on the short-term costs of curbing the recent runaway growth in money and credit, can also be a dangerous lesson.

If we as a nation or the Fed as a central bank concludes that ending inflation is more painful than continuing it, we will be following in the footsteps of the Weimar Republic.

It seems to us more profound to say that the markets have been debating with themselves over whether to believe that this time the Fed means what it says.

I am personally distressed at the pressure the courts have brought to bear on law enforcement officers. Not only do they have to painstakingly observe the criminal "rights" but must bog themselves down with legal paperwork.

Then, many times, a criminal is released on a legal technicality. I feel, sometimes, the laws are to protect the criminal rather than the victim, and those same legal technicalities make the policeman's job almost an impossible task.

Let's face it. Simply to join the police force is courageous. So I implore you, Supreme Court, man-in-the-street, extremist, Congressman and "all" people, to support the policeman; or, if nothing else, have a better attitude. They are there for our benefit.

All-male 'boys in the backroom' protecting their political domain

To the Editor:

I believe the Nameoki Township male power-brokers sit in strategy sessions at the conventions and try to escape their own actions.

Even the crowbar of public opinion is not enough to pry an opening into the back room.

The people of Nameoki elected me their board member on April 5, 1977, and I believe these men have stacked their chairs against the doors to protect what they think of as their exclusive domain — political power.

My answer to the Oct. 11 letter by the Pillsbury doughboy "cookie," I ask that these facts be considered.

1. If the large number of elected and appointed representatives of all phases of government want to attend township, county and state conventions and congressional junkets and feel these trips are so vital, why don't they pay for it themselves?

2. The petition drive launched by most backers to recognize me as the successor to the trustee position was indeed, as the writer said, unsuccessful.

These four men, Harold Adams, Lee Adams, Jerry Adams and Andy Adams, chose not to recognize the township voters' choice, who was elected in the actual election. What are they afraid of?

3. Some of these same men have stepped on my shoulders to boost themselves up the political ladder, and now they say I scare them because I won't keep my mouth shut.

Well, I'm the first to realize that politics is a world that is tough and nasty. But as President Nixon said, "If you can't stand the heat, get out of the kitchen."

I am indeed the chairman of the Nameoki Township Government, and right at this time we are looking for people that are interested in the township government against the people.

There has never been any attempt to disenfranchise anyone. I am not withdrawing my petition. In fact, cookie has signed many of the petitions himself, only to change his mind the next day.

To the Editor:

What has been allowed to happen to the management of our federal government the past 50 years needs to be evaluated.

Specific changes during these 50 years cannot be changed overnight. "Change is constant." This does not mean the past or the present is all wrong or all right.

Washington, D.C., has deteriorated for 50 years. That all that is needed to solve a problem is the "creation of another department" (more regulation).

We begin to realize now that it has been impossible for 50 years to have representatives, senators, congressmen and school boards to handle the enormous job each person has been asked to do by the creation of all these departments, plus the money to create these departments.

No group or human beings, however organized, can do more when the amount of work has accumulated to Percy for Washington pay boosts

By ROBERT ESTILL

Press-Record
Washington Bureau

One of the convenient aspects of "messages" from voters is that they can be interpreted — post-election — to suit the situation.

Although Sen. Charles Percy said Congressmen go through the annual rite of vote to reject them is so they can tell their constituents they voted against a pay raise.

"We do not have to do that," Percy said. "If we have to get re-elected on that basis, I do not want to be a senator."

That, incidentally, is the same Charles Percy who dropped on bonded knees to tell voters "I got the message" when it looked like he might not be a senator much longer.

"I do not even mind sending out 125 radio tapes saying I am for a pay increase," says Percy. "And I would have done that the year before my election. That is why I had so much trouble, I suppose."

When Percy was facing a re-election campaign last year, he was spared the obligation of going on the radio with a pay raise vote. Eager to avoid the election year embarrassment a floor fight on pay raises would entail, House and Senate appropriations committees blocked the increases by not providing funds to pay the 5.5 increase.

Percy, who is worth about $6 million, says he is not interested in the money for himself. He says he has used his pay increases since he came to Congress for extra staff and office expenses not reimbursed by the taxpayers.

But he feels for the less fortunate. And, besides, there is that question of worth.

Percy says he was earning three times as much as his Congressional salary way back when he was the 29-year-old president of Bell & Howell, Inc.

He figures any member of the Illinois Congressional delegation could earn a six-figure salary by forsaking politics for private industry.

And he relies on the traditional argument of pay raise advocates, that government has to pay better if it is to attract and keep qualified people. Refusing a pay raise is a token gesture that would do nothing to offset inflation, it is contended.

Percy chooses to ignore a subtle distinction between government and private sector salary decisions on pay raises cited by Rep. George O'Brien, R-Joliet, a pay hike opponent.

A corporate executive does not set his own salary. That is up to his board of directors. A member of Congress, however, tells his employers — the public — what they are going to pay him.

O'Brien does not think members of Congress should get a pay hike during their term of employment. If they want to give themselves a boost, they should have to face the voters before they can collect it, he says.

share, compared with sales of $10,000 and earnings of $4,540,000, or 92 cents per share, in the same period last year.

Smith said third quarter earnings of 31 cents a share were the second best since 1973. He credited the company's agricultural subsidiaries and affiliates with the above-average performance.

The third quarter is historically the low earnings point of each year because of model changes in the automotive industry, to which A. O. Smith is a major supplier.

This year, sales of automobiles declined from 1978 and the introduction of 1980 models was delayed as car builders attempted to reduce inventories.

In the first nine months of the year, sales were $648,774,000 with profits, before an extraordinary loss of $2,332,000. This was $4.54 per share, compared with sales in the first nine months of last year of $601,144,000 and earnings of $20,422,000, or $4.16 per share.

Because of the extraordinary loss in the second quarter, net earnings for the first nine months were $16,352,000, or $3.32 per share.

As a result of the slowing of auto sales and the delayed start-up of 1980 models, A. O. Smith's Automotive Division reported lower sales in the third quarter than a year ago and a loss compared with a profit last year.

In 1978, car sales in the third quarter were strong and the model changeover period was shorter. This division supplies auto and truck frames and other structural components to the nation's car and truck builders.

Sales and profits at A. O. Smith Harvestore Products, a subsidiary which manufactures livestock feeding storage and waste handling systems, were up substantially in the third quarter compared with a year ago.

Also announced were plans for "Santa's Secret Shop," a project by which children may purchase gifts for Christmas.

Mrs. Doris Votaw announced the need for a leader for a Junior Girl Scout troop and Ed Gowan announced plans for an open house Nov. 20.

Also discussed were plans for a candy sale, to be held in November.

A program on scoliosis (lateral curvature of the spine) was presented by Mrs. Nancy Graf, school nurse. Sixth grade students at Lake School will be checked for the disorder during the school year.

Ray Seaman's fourth grade room won the attendance banner for October and will be presented a check for $5 by the PTA, the money to be used toward purchase of classroom equipment.

Refreshments for the meeting were provided and served by the sixth grade room mothers.

BRASHEAR FAMILY

Brashear family at fall round-up

The Rev. Donald Clark of Mount Zion General Baptist Church, 2067 Benton St., is declaring Sunday, Oct. 21, to be the annual fall round-up.

Plans consist of all-day activities beginning with Sunday school at 9:45 and morning worship at 10:30. During the worship hour, there will be a special presentation by the Children's Church.

The Sunday school department has been involved in a contest which will climax with the losers serving the winners a pot luck dinner beginning at 2 p.m.

An afternoon of games, skits, singing and fellowship is planned. Talent representatives of all adult and high school Sunday school classes will be presented. A puppet show will be under the direction of David Harley.

These events will be followed by an evening of singing by the Brashear family of Phoenix, Ariz., which will begin at 6 p.m.

The Brashears consist of Jerrell singing with his son, Mike, 17, and older daughter Lisa, 15, and his wife, Janice, playing the piano. Their younger daughter, Angela, 8, also sings with the group. Mike also plays the bass guitar.

The Brashears originated Gospel Music Month in Arizona through the governor's office and the Grand Canyon state convention, which they host each year.

Rev. Clark and the associate pastor, the Rev. Dale Price, have invited the public to attend all or part of the round-up activities.

Injunction keeps sanitary district power and gas on

Madison County Associate Judge Philip J. Rarick issued a temporary restraining order at 1 p.m. Monday to keep Illinois Power Co. from disconnecting any utility service to the Metro-East Sanitary District.

The order was issued at the request of Larry Calvo, attorney for the sanitary district, after the supply of natural gas was turned off at the district's office in Washington Park Monday morning.

Initial reports to Calvo that the electricity also had been turned off were in error.

Sanitary District Commissioner Walter "Shang" Greathouse contacted Illinois Power Co. officials and was told that gas to the building should not have been turned off, since no shutdown order had been issued to the service staff. The utility voluntarily resumed gas service at noon Monday.

A spokesman for the sanitary district explained that the district owes more than $20,000 in gas and electric bills to Illinois Power and Union Electric, and has received several "threatening phone calls" indicating the service could be turned off.

"We have just explained to them there is no way we can pay the bills. We can't borrow and the few dollars that we have are using to try and pay our employees. They have gone all summer with hit-and-miss paydays," according to Helen Christich, chief clerk for the sanitary district.

Rarick's temporary restraining order prohibits Illinois Power from turning off electric or gas service to the sanitary district until a hearing is held Monday, Oct. 22, at 9:30 a.m. in Rarick's courtroom in Edwardsville, at which time an injunction could be ordered to keep the utilities on.

Calvo said the main concern of the district is that electric power could be turned off to the water pumps in lift stations which protect large portions of Madison and St. Clair counties from flooding during heavy rains.

An Illinois Power Co. spokesman said the utility never gave serious consideration to turning off the electricity to the lift stations.

The sanitary district expects to be able to pay the utilities by January, when additional taxes are expected to be received.

Frohardt School to mark 25 years

Frohardt School PTA held its first 1979-80 meeting in addition to voting on the annual budget, Ways and Means Chairman Donna Petrillo announced plans for a birthday program celebrating Frohardt's 25th year and a candy sale which is under way.

Membership Chairmen Linda McQuade and Linda Pickett announced a membership drive during October, with a goal of a 10 percent increase in membership.

President John Fuhrman announced a $5 prize will be awarded at every skate party this year. Danny Wilson was the recipient at the September skate party.

Principal Gary Pfroender and the Frohardt staff were introduced and presented with a token of appreciation from the PTA.

After the business meeting, a reception was held in the cafeteria to meet and talk with Pfroender and the staff.

Open house will be held Oct. 23 and will replace the October PTA business meeting, giving parents the opportunity to visit their children's classrooms and activity rooms.

LOCAL PRINCIPALS ATTEND CONFERENCE

Agnes P. Frytztko, principal of Parkview School, and Jack Mulach, principal of Maryville School, participated in the eighth annual fall conference of the Illinois Principals' Association on Oct. 14-17.

Approximately 1,200 principals from throughout Illinois gathered for the yearly meeting at the Arlington Park Hilton, Arlington Heights.

Theme of this year's conference was "The Principalship: Looking to the Eighties." Members of the association, which serves elementary, junior high, and secondary principals, plan and conduct this meeting to provide information to principals that will assist them to better serve the schools of Illinois.

Free movie at Logan School

A Thief In The Night, a color movie about Bible prophecy, will be shown at 7 p.m. Friday at Logan School gymnasium. The public may attend without charge.

The Mark IV movie won the Best Film of the Year award from the National Evangelical Film Foundation of Valley Forge, Pa., and the lead actress, Patty Dunning, received the Outstanding Female Actress award.

Veterinary medicine structure is started

Dr. Leland H. Holt of Granite City, president, Illinois State Veterinary Medical Association, spoke and assisted in groundbreaking ceremonies this month for the University of Illinois College of Veterinary Medicine Basic Science Building.

R. E. Dierks, dean of the college, presided.

Other speakers included R. Leland West, director of scientific activities, American Veterinary Medical Association; Larry Baker, president, College of Veterinary Medicine Alumni Association; Orville Bentley, dean of the College of Agriculture and representing the Agriculture Alumni Association.

Harold Steele, president, Illinois Agricultural Association, representing the Illinois Agricultural Commodities Organization; John E. Cribbet, acting chancellor, University of Illinois, Champaign-Urbana campus; Stanley O. Ikenberry, president, University of Illinois.

William Forsyth Jr., president, Board of Trustees, University of Illinois; Stanley Weaver, state senator; Samuel Skinner, chairman, Illinois Capital Development Board; John Block, director, Department of Agriculture, representing the governor's office; and Charles Percy, U.S. senator.

Dr. Holt remarked that the new building — and the program which spawned it, Food for Century III — has ramifications beyond day-to-day concerns.

"As the college has matured, the research programs have grown, but facilities have been a limiting factor."

"The new Basic Science Building, as well as small facilities being constructed on the research farm and more facilities planned for future years of Food for Century III, will allow the faculty to complete even more meaningful research," Dr. Holt predicted.

"Each year, animal losses cost this nation millions of dollars. It is then easy to see the extreme importance of the need, not only to the veterinary profession but to the animal owners of Illinois."

"The body of knowledge in science is constantly expanding and changing. 'The College of Veterinary Medicine and the College of Agriculture — in a joint venture in this $22 million building — will enable knowledge to grow and research to become a reality,'" Dr. Holt said.

In the place of the traditional spades, a pair of oxen and a walking plow were used for the groundbreaking, recognizing the historical significance of veterinary medicine and animal agriculture.

Dr. and Mrs. Holt spent the evening with dean R. E. Dierks. The next day, a group of guests of President Stanley O. Ikenberry and Acting Chancellor John E. Cribbet, they were entertained at a brunch and the University of Illinois homecoming football game.

Furnace conversion similar to GC planned for Great Lakes

A multi-million-dollar steelmaking furnace capital improvement program for National Steel Corporation's Great Lakes Steel Division at Ecorse (Detroit), Mich., was announced in Pittsburgh Wednesday afternoon by corporate Chairman George A. Stinson. Similar work is under way in Granite City.

Under the program, two of the plant's 300-ton-capacity basic oxygen steelmaking furnaces will be adapted to make steel by an advanced oxygen and scrap preheating process known as the OBM-S or KMS system.

It is believed to be the first time furnaces as large as 300-ton-capacity will be converted for KMS steelmaking, according to National Steel.

A key advantage of the KMS system is that it permits greater use of steel scrap, an economic benefit when scrap prices are lower, rather than total dependence on use of a high percentage of hot metal normally produced in a blast furnace.

In the basic oxygen furnace, oxygen and raw materials are fed into the furnace vessel from the top, while in the KMS system, oxygen is blown simultaneously from both the top and bottom to refine steel. Additional raw materials can be introduced into the vessel from either the top or bottom.

This advanced technique permits high rates of steel production at a significant saving in energy, since less hot metal can be used, Stinson explained.

"Not only will we be better able to manage raw material costs as a result of this improvement," he noted, "but we will realize gains in yield, operating efficiency, productivity and competitive position for Great Lakes Steel Division."

"In addition, this furnace improvement project is another evidence of National's commitment to its steel business, which has accounted for approximately 94 percent of its total sales during each of the past five years."

"It is also part of a continuing commitment to install the latest technological advances in its plants to ensure present and future competitive position against both foreign and domestic producers."

"We are striving to become 'THE' low-cost producer of the domestic steel industry," Stinson said, "and this advanced installation as well as a similar program recently announced for our Granite City Steel Division should go a long way toward our meeting that goal."

Completion of the Great Lakes furnace conversion is scheduled for early 1981, while adaptation of Granite City Steel's two 235-ton-capacity basic oxygen furnaces for KMS steelmaking is targeted for the end of next year.

Stinson also pointed out that major environmental improvements should result from the furnace adaptation project.

It will allow Great Lakes to maintain high rates of steel production with tighter control over particulate emissions, while producing a high-quality steel suitable for automotive as well as a wide variety of non-automotive applications.

Also, the electrostatic precipitators will be replaced with a more efficient wet scrubber facility. And secondary gas cleaning will be provided to control charging and tapping emissions.

"We believe this change will result not only in greater yield from available hot metal, but it will expand the range of products available from Great Lakes — which ties in with our marketing strategy for the future," Stinson said.

"By linking the output of the KMS furnaces to the recently installed and highly successful continuous slab caster at Great Lakes, we should be in a good competitive position if steel shortages occur in the mid-1980s, as is now predicted."

The Great Lakes furnace changes will be made in the No. 1 Basic Oxygen Process (BOP) shop, which was placed into operation in October 1962.

The principal change in the basic oxygen furnaces will involve installation of tuyeres in the bottom of the furnaces to permit the injection of oil and oxygen for the preheating of scrap.

Lime and other alloying elements also will be injected into the bottom of the vessels.

In operation, the KMS system produces a lower amount of fumes and dust during the period when oxygen is blown into the furnace to refine the steel, as compared to the conventional basic oxygen furnace process now in use at Great Lakes.

The revised vessels will be equipped with hoods to reduce fugitive emissions of dust and emissions while molten pig iron from the blast furnaces is being poured into the vessels.

Current BOP steelmaking at Great Lakes requires a scrap steel charge of around 30 percent and a hot metal charge of 70 percent. With the KMS method, the steel scrap portion can be increased by about 10 to 15 percent, giving Great Lakes an important option to use more or less scrap, depending upon availability and price, it was related.

Engineering for the furnace project is being handled by Pennsylvania Engineering Corp. of Pittsburgh. Installation will be accomplished during regularly scheduled relining of the BOP furnaces to prevent any loss of production at the Michigan plant.

'Up' Cahokia looking for revenge at South

By PETE HAYES

GRANITE CITY — When Cahokia High School's football team steps onto the field here Friday night, it will face three sobering obstacles.

- 1.) It will be trying to win its first game of the season (the Comanches are 0-5).
- 2.) It will be homecoming at GHS South.
- 3.) It will be facing a team that is in the thick of a conference race.
- 4.) Cahokia will be playing the same South team that jumped down its throat 37-0 in Cahokia on the third weekend of the season.

South will carry a 2-2 Gateway East Conference record and a 3-3 overall mark into Friday's 7:30 p.m. homecoming game at Memorial Stadium. The Warriors are a game and a half off the front runner, 2-0 Granite North.

All that means an easy South victory, right? Wrong, according to South coach Stan Wojcik. "Cahokia has improved greatly since we played them," he said. "They gave Edwardsville all it wanted and played tough against Mascoutah."

"Plus, they'll be looking for revenge."

Because there are only five teams in the new Gateway East Conference, South must face Cahokia and Granite North twice this season in order for an even number of games to be played.

Wojcik doesn't like playing a team twice in the same season. "I don't like it at all," he said. "I rather play a team and get it over with. Our first game just gives them something to think about for a few weeks and get up to knock us off."

Cahokia could well be playing the "spoiler" role in the conference race. After Friday's game at South, the Comanches will play at Althoff the next weekend.

In the first South-Cahokia game, the Comanches began the game as if to send the Warriors back to Granite City licking their wounds. They ran the ball well against South until they reached the Warrior 30 yard line where they were stopped and forced to punt. On its possession, South quickly kicked on third down and long. Cahokia fumbled on the next play and South was off and running. Put more precisely, Jeff Bergrader was off and running.

Bergrader, the South tailback, ran for 89 yards and one touchdown against Cahokia.

The Comanches committed a rash of turnovers against South, something that had Cahokia coach Jim McKay worried. "We were beating ourselves and taking ourselves out of ball games," he said.

Even though Cahokia is still looking for its first victory of the season, it has been in two of its last three games. But last week at Poplar Bluff, Mo., the Comanches were never in the game, falling behind 30-0 before scoring two harmless touchdowns in the fourth quarter. Cahokia was able to rush for 166 yards and pass for 123.

Last week against Granite North, South's normally tough defense gave up 199 yards rushing and 86 through the air in the 21-14 loss.

The offense of the Warriors picked up 135 yards on the ground and 17 through the air. But it did it without the services of two workhorse running backs, Bergrader and Scott Polson. Bergrader was out with a severe hip pointer and Polson with a back injury. It is uncertain if they will be able to play against Cahokia.

Polson scored two TDs against Cahokia the first game. South, if it doesn't the conference title, could still have a lot to say about which team does. The Warriors finish the regular season next week against North looking for revenge. Just like Cahokia.

THE SPECTRE? Granite City North head coach Tom Wyrostek takes an overzealous stance at a recent Steeler practice session. North will try and stay in first place in the Gateway East Conference Saturday when it travels to second-place Belleville Althoff.

WOODROME OLDSMOBILE'S PLAYER OF THE WEEK

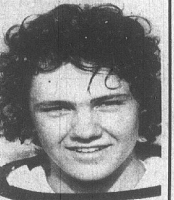

Jack-of-all trades

GRANITE CITY — Granite City North's Danny Patterson is a jack-of-all-trades. Last season, he stepped into the starting quarterback position for the football Steelers after an injury to regular starter Tim Dudley in the third game of the season. Even though the North squad didn't win any of its games last year, it wasn't because of a lack of effort on Patterson's part.

This season, Patterson was supposed to be running back and a corner back in addition to the back up quarterback.

Last Friday night against cross-town school Granite City South, Patterson stepped in at quarterback, while Dudley moved out to split end. Patterson helped lead the North offense attack in the Steelers' thrilling 21-14 victory over the Warriors. For that reason, he is this week's choice for Player of the Week.

Patterson passed for 86 yards, including a touchdown aerial to Dudley.

DAN PATTERSON

is selected by the Press-Record staff each week and sponsored by Woodrome Oldsmobile in Granite City. Other nominees for the honor this week were Patterson's teammates Pat Jateff and Tim Dudley, South soccer players Phil Baljanski and David Fernandez and Madison soccer players Jim Broadway and Jim Woodsom.

Madison visits Dupo

MADISON — Madison High's football Trojans have an unenviable task awaiting them this Friday. They must travel to Dupo to face a tough Tiger squad that is fighting for its life in the tough County Football Conference — and a berth in the playoffs.

Dupo, ranked fifth in this week's Press-record Coaches' Poll, carries a 6-0 overall record and 2-0 conference mark into the 7:30 p.m. game. Madison is 0-5 and 0-3.

Last week, the two teams were in different types of games. Madison was beaten 63-0 by powerful Assumption, while Dupo was hanging on for a 6-3 nail-biter over Columbia. Assumption is one of two teams tied for first place with Dupo, the other being Freeburg, which beat Breese Central 27-0.

Madison coach Charles Steptoe isn't awed by the Dupo team, however. "I saw their game against Columbia Saturday and they looked Coaches' Poll, carries a 6-0 overall record and 2-0 conference mark into the 7:30 p.m. game. Madison is 0-5 and 0-3.

Against Assumption, Madison saw four of its passes intercepted. Two were ran back for touchdowns.

Madison did have some bright spots against Assumption. Quarterback Robert Johnson passed for 136 yards and looked good at times.

Dupo scored a second quarter touchdown against Columbia (a team that beat Madison 33-0 earlier) and held on to the narrow three-point victory. The Tigers had only 117 yards total offense.

after Friday's game, the Trojans will have two left on their schedule. Next week, they will play at home Friday against Chatham-Glenwood. Nov. 3 they will be at Freeburg.

Boxing meeting Sunday

GRANITE CITY — A meeting of all persons interested in an amateur boxing program in Granite City will be held Sunday, Oct. 21 at the Mexican Honorary Commission Hall, 1801 Spruce at 1:30 p.m.

According to Ruben Mendoza, one of the local organizers of the program, about 60 names have been put on the list for the program. Several coaches have already been secured with more expected.

The boxing program will be open to young men of all ages.

first half on the last play of the period:

The fatal play was a screen pass thrown by Althoff quarterback Matt Hardin and intercepted by Bill Flaugher who ran it 65 yards for a touchdown, boosting the Tigers to the victory.

Schott said he accepted responsibility for the play. "I called the screen pass," he said. "If I had it to do all over again, I guess I wouldn't call it. But we wanted to score before the half."

Althoff dominated the statistics, outgaining Edwardsville 227 yards to 94, including a 120-yard passing performance by Hardin.

Against North, South quarterback Honda Ambuehl was one out of 11 for 17 yards. The Steeler defense gave up 135 yards on the ground.

Wyrostek said he isn't sure who will start at quarterback against Althoff - Patterson or Dudley. "Tim looked pretty good Friday night and so did Patterson," he said. "But a lot depends on what happens in practice this week."

The conference race probably won't be decided until the last weekend of the season, two weeks from now. Next week North returns to Granite City for a second game against South and Althoff is at Cahokia. It will be South's final regular season game. In two weeks, Edwardsville visits North in the final conference game of the season. Every other conference team will finish its loop action Oct. 26.

Andrews doesn't qualify

INA, Ill. — Granite City North golfer Chris Andrews fired an 88 here Monday in the West Frankfort Sectional Golf Tournament and thus failed to qualify for the state tournament this weekend. The final qualifying cutoff was 79.

Andrews, who led the individual qualifiers from the Wood River District, shot a 39 on the front nine holes at Rend Lake Golf Course near here but fell to a 49 on the back nine. Andrews shot a 76 Sunday on the same course.

West Frankfort won the team championship with a 319, while Belleville East and West tied for second with 322.

The three top teams will advance to the state high school golf tournament this weekend.

North netters beaten

GRANITE CITY — The Granite City North girls tennis team was ambushed here Tuesday by cross-town foe Granite City South 7-0 in matches played at North.

South's Laura Gabriel got things off to a good start for her team when she took care of North's Lisa McKee 6-0, 6-1 in the number one singles match. In number two singles, Susan Squires beat North's Mary Kefalas 6-2, 6-1. Susan Bell of South beat Lori Frykala 6-3, 6-2 and Joan Boker beat Steelerette Sherri Easley 6-2, 6-3 in other singles matches.

In doubles, South's duo of Wendy Kelly and Shari D'Pew beat Diane Kwiatkowski and Laura Chappell 6-1, 6-0. Theresa Gwaidac and Debbie Arne of South beat North's Kellee Blockberger and Nikki Barr 6-3, 6-2 and Karen Hall and Jeanie Spahn of South defeated Christoph Lauderdale and Tammy Taylor of North 6-4, 6-0.

Game of the year?

GRANITE CITY — It won't be the Super Bowl exactly, but to the teams involved it will be.

Sunday, Victory Tavern of Madison and Jacobsmeyer's Tavern of Granite City will tangle on the football field. Both taverns support entries in the St. Louis flag football league and they will play each other at 10 a.m. at Delwood Park, two miles south of Interstate 270 on West Florissant Avenue.

The 12 team, two-division league championship was won last season by Victory, which comes into the game sporting a 5-1 record. Jacobsmeyer's is 3-3-1.

CLOSING IN on Granite South's Jeff Tinsley (with ball) are Collinsville players Joe O'Donnel (7) and Scott Geaschel Tuesday during the second half of the Warriors' 1-0 win. South has never lost a prep soccer game to Collinsville.

Steel scrap exports cause concern here

United States exports of ferrous scrap rose in August for the fourth successive month, reaching a new high for the 12-month period ending in August, a new American Iron and Steel Institute report showed this week. The 12-month total was 11,500,000 net tons, compared with the previous peak of 11,232,000 tons recorded from November 1978.

Faces 2 charges

Joel W. Knight, 20, of 2122 Benton St., was arrested in Kirkpatrick Homes early this week and was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct. Police were called to the 4100 block of Kirkpatrick on a report of a fight and alleged they saw Knight push Gary Earlin, Collinsville, and then yell obscenities.

When police attempted to break up the disturbance, officers allegedly were pushed. Necessary force was used to subdue Knight, it was asserted.

Earlin said the disagreement began over an illegally parked truck. Earlin went to St. Elizabeth Medical Center where he was treated for abrasions to his left shoulder, arm and left knee and was released. Police later took Knight to the medical center. He was treated for minor injuries and was returned to custody. Later he was released on $80 cash bond.

1972 through October 1973, the Institute said in an analysis of Commerce Department figures. The high level of scrap exports is of "serious concern" to the steel industry, the Institute said. The upswing in scrap demand abroad has come at a time when capacity utilization in foreign steel producing countries has been at a relatively low level.

This implies, the Institute said, that a serious shortage of scrap could develop quickly in the U.S. with only a moderate increase in world steel production.

It was recalled that on Sept. 5 the Institute renewed its request—originally made last January—that the Commerce Department start to monitor ferrous scrap exports. Formal monitoring would give the government more timely advance notice of market conditions that would make export controls necessary.

The AISI has received a letter from retiring Commerce Secretary Juanita M. Kreps, acknowledging the new request and promising that the subject will be studied by staff experts. However, no substantive reply has been received.

The industry has pointed out to Commerce that increased scrap consumption helps meet many government objectives—resource conservation, environmental goals, and energy conservation, to name just the obvious ones. The steel industry now consumes about 55 tons of scrap for every 100 tons of new steel produced. In addition, every ton of scrap contains the energy equivalent of 2.9 barrels of oil.

As a result, the U.S. has exported the equivalent of 22.5 million barrels of oil with a value of about $500 million in the January-August period this year, in the form of ferrous scrap. In that eight-month period, the U.S. exported 7,772,000 tons of ferrous scrap, a 46 percent increase over the 5,310,000 tons exported in January-August period of 1978.

Shipments this year have gone to more than 30 countries because of the widespread use of electric furnaces, which consume scrap almost exclusively, in newer steel-producing countries.

Export shipments in the first eight months of this year included: Japan 2,229,000 tons, 29 percent above the 1978 eight-month total; Spain 1,031,000 tons, up 302 percent; Republic of Korea 1,012,000 tons, down three percent; Italy 673,000 tons, up 82 percent; Canada 671,000 tons, up 33 percent; Mexico 494,000 tons, up 94 percent; Taiwan 463,000 tons, up 82 percent; Greece 352,000 tons, up 39 percent; and about 20 other countries, 337,000 tons, up 54 percent.

Start new magazine

Jim and Judy Landers have always felt that news stories need to be explained in depth. Many people may feel this way, but the two decided to go one step farther and start their own magazine, which they have named "Add One."

"My wife and I used to be reporters for daily newspapers. We always felt there was a need to explain complex stories in depth. Dailies are not set up to do a lot of depth reporting," Landers said.

He is an assistant professor in the SIUE mass communications department. An introduction to the first issue states the editorial policy as "more information about important topics, more interpretation of events, and more analysis of issues."

"Add One" is a journalism term used on the second page of a news story to inform the editor that the story is continuing.

"We've been planning this magazine for six years. We feel there is a need to provide thorough articles concerning topics of local interest. For the past six months, we have been monitoring newspapers and television stations for story ideas. We try to find things the other media have only touched upon that could be covered in more depth," Landers said.

The first issue's main articles were about the metromex study on weather conditions in St. Louis and the Post Dispatch-Globe Democrat merger of business and advertising operations.

Landers explained that the Metropolitan Meteorological Experiment (Metromex) is not a recent story, but it is something he feels has never been completely reported. "There are a lot of ways for people to use the data from this study," he said.

Metromex was conducted during the summers of 1971-75 to determine what, if any, effect the city of St. Louis had on weather conditions in the surrounding areas. Results showed that the city was very instrumental in altering the storm systems that passed overhead.

"I have always been fascinated by the Globe-Post merger, and I don't think the public realizes what the impact of this could be," Landers said. The two newspapers have merged most of their offices except for the editorial and news rooms.

There will also be two specialists contributing articles to each edition of the Landers magazine. "As a reporter, I always used specialists for background information. Some of the people we have lined up so far are scholars from universities, business people and experts on various topics," he said. Readers may also submit articles to be used in a commentary section.

Most of the work for the magazine is done in the basement of the Landers' Troy, Ill., home. They, along with the page design editor, Alan Gerstenecker, do most of the work involved. They lease typesetting equipment and contract for printing and newstand distribution.

"We want to reach both the St. Louis and metro-east areas. Existing media do not focus on both sides of the river. Many St. Louis people know very little about what the east side has to offer," Landers said.

"Our goal is to have 10,000 to 12,000 subscribers, with about 3,000 newstand sales. The publication is geared to anyone who likes to read and wants in-depth reporting on area issues."

GRADUATES FROM U. OF FLORIDA

John Billelo, a former resident of Granite City, earned a bachelor of health science degree in medical technology from the University of Florida, Gainesville, Fla., at the conclusion of the summer quarter. Attending the graduation ceremony were John's parents, sister, and grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Edwin Reynolds, who reside in Granite City at 1525 Clark Ave.

During the spring and summer quarters, he was named to the Dean's List, signifying outstanding academic performance. He has accepted a position with the Shands Teaching Hospital in Gainesville.

Arrest intruder in home

Timothy H. Steffens, 23, of 2629 Missouri Ave., was charged with criminal trespass to land, disorderly conduct, attempted theft and possession of marijuana after he allegedly forced his way into a woman's home in the 2800 block of Madison Avenue at 11:20 a.m. Friday, while the woman was home.

The victim said she was talking on the telephone when she heard loud noises at the front door. When she investigated, she saw a young man standing inside the front door. She ran out the back door screaming.

Patrolman Robert Krause said he was patrolling in the area when he heard a woman scream. He drove around a block to try and find out where the screaming was originating and said he saw a woman in her nightgown run across an alley toward the police car.

The woman then said the man who broke into her house was still inside. Krause said he entered with his gun drawn and saw a man sitting in a front room chair with his eyes closed. He failed to open his eyes, even when Krause identified himself as a policeman.

The officer said it was necessary to push the man onto the floor to handcuff him. The victim then came inside and discovered her purse had been ransacked and dumped on the bed.

Police alleged a bag of marijuana was found near where the man was sitting. Steffens' bond was set at $535.

FRIGHTEN PROWLER

The family of Lewis Reveille, 173 Briarview Lane, was awakened by a noise at the front door at 2:15 a.m. Sunday and investigated to see someone tampering with several windows. The wife opened the front door and yelled at the young man, who fled on foot west. A screen on the kitchen window had been cut and an outside storm window opened, but the inside window was locked. The man was described as about 5 feet, 9 inches tall, of medium build and wearing a gray sweatshirt with a hood.

Constituents and friends of Everett G. Steele, 56th District state representative, are completing plans for a two-hour patriotic program to be held in the Meridian Ballroom of the JUE the evening of Nov. 6, billed as a Salute to Steele.

Program chairman Walt Schleimer has announced that such nationally prominent figures as Mrs. Phyllis Schlafly of Alton and Lieutenant Governor David O'Neal of Belleville will be appearing on the program along with Dwight Frederick, state representative from the 55th District.

Abraham Lincoln impersonator Harry Hahn will make an appearance along with a slide presentation, "A day with Everett Steele," giving his local constituents an opportunity to learn first-hand about a typical legislative day in Springfield.

Musical units, refreshments and other entertainment will make this one of the major Republican events of the year, Schleimer said.

Tickets are available by calling Eleanor Schuler, ticket chairman, at 656-2731.

Approval by the FHA is the final step before Federal Aid to Urban Systems (FAUS) grant funds are released to the city, he added. State highway authorities already have given their blessings to the plans.

Construction could begin as soon as a bid is accepted.

expected to give the project its final approval next month. "I feel confident that by November, we will have approval," Brewer said.

Brewer reported that the Federal Highway Administration still is studying the city's final plans for the proposed two-lane overpass and is ex-

Is it the sun in the Sunbelt or the taxes in the Taxbelt that cause plants to move?

Wall Street Journal — Whatever their problems, the Sunbelt states have allowed the envy of the stagnant North and Northeast.

This envy has led to some petty attempts to scapegoat and retaliate, in the reprehensible notion that any gain for the South meant an automatic loss for the North.

But the initial resentment has given way to a groping search for the Sunbelt's secret formula, which could yet be the salvation of the Taxbelt.

Certainly the initial Northern reactions did little but show the hypocrisy of its liberals. In the heat of fiscal crisis, New Yorkers and other bankrupts formed coalitions dedicated to the notion that the federal government had unfairly drained tax dollars from the North to build up the South.

This "flow-of-funds" analysis had serious problems since New York Gov. Carey came out ahead on most versions of the count. It was also profoundly immoral.

New York liberals were indignant because incomes in the South dared rise toward (but not all the way to) the national average while incomes in the North lost some (but not all) of their privileged position.

These Northern progressives conveniently overlooked the problems of illiteracy, poor health and substandard living, which are more severe in the Sunbelt than anywhere else in the country, and which economic growth offered some hope to cure.

The liberals also forgot that the Sunbelt holds the nation's largest concentration of the poor, the blacks and the Hispanics, for whose welfare they profess such concern.

More recently, Taxbelt voters, if not politicians, have come to see the relation between ever-increasing tax burdens and economic decline.

Those who haven't been voting with their feet, by packing up for the growth states, are now voting at the polls.

Elected officials are beginning to catch on, with varied effectiveness.

The phenomenon is especially pronounced in those states whose tax burden stands out so far above the national average that the Advisory Commission on Intergovernmental Relations has labeled them the "sorethumb states," namely California, Massachusetts and New York.

California, which until last year had the third highest state and local tax burden in the country, has gone from not only the famous Prop. 13 revolution in property tax, but a state of state income tax cutting.

Last year's post-Jarvis partial income tax indexing has just been expanded to full indexing (though only for two years).

And Howard Jarvis is back with a new proposal to halve the state income tax.

While official figures aren't in on the total reduction so far in the state tax burden, it's clearly been enough to swell an economic boom, lower the customarily high unemployment rate and attract a new flood of immigration, which has tapered off in the early '70s.

Massachusetts went from 28th to fifth in high tax burdens in the decade ending in 1975.

But Governor Edward King won election last year as a tax revolt candidate. In spite of his own flaws, and the unrelenting hostility of the Boston Globe, he has managed to enact a part of his program.

In an overnight reversal, the legislature cut the state capital gains tax by 60 percent, and a 4 percent cap on local government spending growth has caused a net rollback of property tax of $100 million.

With the overall tax burden dropping by maybe 7 percent, seasoned economic observers see the makings of the first boom in over a decade.

New York State, far and away the most highly taxed state (with the freak exception of Alaska), suffered such obvious economic decline that Governor Hugh L. Carey was one of the earliest Northeastern converts to tax cutting.

Since the last surge of fiscal crisis in 1975, Gov. Carey has tried to remove surcharges and reduce income and capital gains tax rates, sometimes with resistance from the legislature.

There's been an end to the job loss (more than in 1975), but the state is still stagnant, ranking dead last in a U.S. Department of Commerce survey of state recovery from the 1975 recession.

The reason simply is the dead weight of New York City. With half the state's population, the city's continuing budget deficits frustrate tax cutting and foster a high unemployment that booms the statewide rate by nearly two percentage points.

This tax-cutting effort in the heart of the Taxbelt confirms our thesis that economic growth has more to do with state policy than geography.

Voters and some politicians sense it through their practical experience. By the same coin, though, some Sunbelt states luxuriating in growth are beginning to forget the roots of their success.

The tax burden is rising so rapidly in Arizona, for instance, that it might well become our next "sorethumb" case study.

The Sunbelt policy is not easy to carry out, especially in states accustomed to high public spending.

Yet the North is beginning to find imitation much more productive than sterile regional bickering. It now means for Washington, D.C., to learn the lesson.

Burglary at beauty salon

A burglary at Evelyn's Beauty Shop, 2510 Edwards St., reported at 12:10 p.m. Tuesday, may have netted the intruder only 300 pennies.

An inventory is being made to determine what else may be missing.

Entry was gained by breaking a window in a door and unlocking the door.

A metal cabinet and drawers were ransacked in the storeroom and a file cabinet, display case and drawers were searched in the shop area.

An attempt to break open a soda machine was unsuccessful.

Schuncks reduces 500 grocery prices

Schnuck Markets this week announced major price reductions in more than 500 grocery items. "These items represent significant savings to the consumer on a wide variety of frequently purchased national brand products," Scott C. Schnuck, vice president of marketing, said.

"We are changing our entire pricing and merchandising strategy to meet the needs of today's consumer in the present inflationary situation. We have always been priced competitively with other supermarkets, but now at all 50 supermarkets we are lowering our markup on more than 500 items."

"We are anticipating greater sales and increased volume to offset these lower margins."

"We are calling these 'warehouse specials,' because we are backing this up with special warehouse purchases. Now, Schnucks customers will have the advantage of warehouse pricing every day at a full service, full variety supermarket."

"By changing our merchandising and pricing strategy, we are able to make significant price reductions, such as a reduction of 20 cents per can on national brand tuna."

"This new program is the most important change we have made in our merchandising and pricing approach since 1968, when we dropped trading stamps and lowered prices on hundreds of items. At that time, by eliminating trading stamps, we were able to pass on the reduced costs to our customers on hundreds of items."

Arrested were JoAnn Palmer, 21, of 2205 Washington Ave., Carrie S. Boyer, 17, of 2312 State St., both of whom were charged with possession of liquor, and Danny E. Caughron, 21, of 2871 Madison Ave., charged with transportation of liquor.

Port volume up

(Tri-City Regional Port)
For the fifth consecutive year, the Port has recorded a substantial increase in activities.

For the fiscal year ending June 30, a total of 2,289,000 tons were handled through the Port.

Grain products comprised 57 percent of the tonnage for an equivalent of 43,000,000 bushels of grain.

Other primary commodities handled included petroleum fuels, steel, fertilizer, coke and metal ores. Rail car movements for the year exceeded 23,000.

Highlight of the year's activity was bringing on line of the Port's $2,750,000 grain terminal.

Each of the operating companies in the Port had an outstanding performance.

Prospects for the 1979-80 fiscal year appear very bright, with forecast tonnage of 3,300,000 tons, 31,000 rail movements and 2,350 barge movements.

Petroleum Fuel and Terminals (Apex Oil) is moving into position a new dock barge to replace the aging Barge "Beauregard."

The new dock will permit the simultaneous loading and unloading of up to four 300-ton-foot barges.

The dock was outfitted under the direction of Red Lewis and Tom Kniestadt of Apex from a flat deck barge at Tri-City Port, with piping, valving, cranes, standby boiler, office area and other equipment.

Included are features to improve employee safety and reduce the risk of accidental spills.

The terminal has capabilities of handling all types of liquid cargo between barge, rail and truck.

The National Association of Foreign Trade Zones held the annual conference at the Fairmont Hotel in New Orleans.

Representatives and users of the 49 FTZ zones in the United States attended.

Tri-City Regional Port District was represented by Carl A. Ranft, general manager, and Oscar A. Nazella, manager of FTZ 31.

John DaPonte, executive secretary of the FTZ Board in Washington, D.C., and Louisiana Lt. Gov. James E. Fittmoris Jr. were among the many speakers in the four-day meeting.

Several panels of FTZ grantees, operators and users answered many questions of interest from the participants. New officers of the association were elected.

Tri-City Port has been notified by Congressman Price and Senator Stevenson that the Port's proposal to the U.S. Department of Energy for a feasibility study of a coal gasification facility at the Port has been approved.

Purpose of the study will be to determine the economics of developing a low to medium BTU gasification plant to produce industrial fuel gas.

The gas to be produced by such a facility will have a BTU content in the 150 to 300 BTU per cubic foot range, as compared to 1,000 BTU cubic foot for natural gas.

Such gas can be used by local industries for certain applications or can be used for the generation of steam to produce electricity.

Included in the study all market analysis, preliminary plant design, capital and operating cost estimates, co-generation analysis and development financing alternatives.

The $176,000 study will be directed by George Andres of Tri-City Port with the Dravo Corp., Illinois Power Co., Southwestern Illinois Metropolitan and Regional Planning Commission, and Lueders, Robertson and Konzen participating.

The study will also coordinate activities with the Illinois Department of Natural Resources and Reserve Synthetic Fuels, Inc.

The Department of energy will be providing $46,000, with the balance of the funds provided by local participants.

The project is to be planned in conjunction with the Port's proposed "Coal Complex" under the "Energy Park" concept.

The gas plant is viewed as an additional incentive to attract industrial development to the district by providing stable, reasonably priced energy.

Mrs. Nancy Clotfelter and Oscar A. Nazella represented the Port District in the all-day St. Louis '79 Business Opportunity Fair held at Stouffer's Riverfront Towers, sponsored by the Federal Executive Board and the Regional Commerce and Growth Association.

The Port District reserved Booth 35 for this occasion and had the opportunity to answer many questions regarding Tri-City Port and Foreign Trade Zone 31.

Undersecretary of Commerce Luther H. Hodges Jr. was the guest luncheon speaker.

AAtlas Track Construction Co. of St. Louis was awarded a one-year contract for rail maintenance in the Port.

Under the contract, AAtlas Track will be available for regular maintenance of rail trackage and for emergency repair work at the contracted unit price.

Any tenant desiring track work through this arrangement may contact the Port office.

The Port rail system currently consists of more than five miles of trackage, not including 1.2 miles maintained by the Illinois Terminal Railroad.

Signmark of Granite City was awarded a contract for furnishing and erecting identification signs for the Port area.

State will regulate the method of tying down mobile homes

Beginning Jan. 1, 1980, owners of mobile homes installed in Illinois, or moved from one lot to another, will be responsible for insuring that approved tie-down equipment is used to secure the mobile home.

The Illinois Mobile Home Tie-down Act (PA 81-587) gives the Illinois Department of Public Health authority to promulgate standards and regulations for the manufacture, sale and use of tie-down equipment for mobile homes in Illinois.

The act also prohibits the sale of any tie-down equipment which does not meet or exceed the standards set by the state health department. Violation of the act is classified as a business offense and carries a fine of $100 for each violation.

The legislation was approved by Governor James Thompson. Dr. John Francis, acting director of the Illinois Department of Public Health, said the standards and regulations for mobile home tie-down equipment have been developed and are now being submitted for promulgation.

HURT IN CRASH

Keith Melton, 22, Granite City, suffered cuts to his lip and right hand in an auto crash early this week and was treated and released from St. Elizabeth Medical Center.

JOSEPH SORRENTINO, who was sent to the reformatory at 14 and later became the 1967 Harvard Law School valedictorian, a referee in juvenile court and then a municipal court judge in Los Angeles, spoke at the Belleville Area College at 7:30 p.m. Wednesday. Earlier in the day, he conducted an informal dialogue with BAC's law enforcement classes. He is the author of the book, "Up From Never."

HURTS HAND, WRIST

County Housing official suspended

By ED GURNEY

The upheaval that has been characteristic of the Madison County Housing Authority for the past year continued last week when the board of commissioners suspended the executive director, and the chairman of the board announced he intends to resign.

In a special meeting on Oct. 8, the board suspended Executive Director Jack Bridwell of Alton with pay until his appointment runs out Nov. 30. It also tentatively voted not to reappoint him.

Janet Harolan of Pontoon Beach, the assistant executive director, was named by the board to be acting director.

At Thursday night's regular meeting, Board Chairman Reese Hoskin of Collinsville said he plans to resign, partly because of the way the board handled the Bridwell matter. As chairman, Hoskin did not vote on Bridwell's suspension.

The incident that allegedly helped spark Bridwell's suspension was his signing in August of a contract to hire an employee under a state employment program.

Board members James May of Edwardsville and Mary Jean Davis of East Alton said Bridwell exceeded his authority by signing it without board approval. They said there were other instances in which Bridwell exceeded his authority.

Hoskin said the board should have had an evaluation procedure by which Bridwell could have been told his mistakes and given a chance to correct them. Bridwell was named executive director in February after serving as acting director for several months.

Hoskin, who had been strongly in favor of appointing Bridwell to the job, said he would not have voted to suspend Bridwell last week because of what he described as a "kangaroo court" held for the director.

May and Davis said they believe the board adequately counseled Bridwell. The other board member, Thomas Jun of Alton, abstained from the vote to suspend Bridwell, but did vote in favor of the motion indicating the board will not reappoint Bridwell.

"I don't believe I was exceeding my authority," Bridwell said. "There are things the director should be able to do every day, and he should be relied on to make decisions."

Signing the contract to hire the employee should be within the realm of his day-to-day authority, Bridwell said.

Casper Nighohossian, attorney for the housing authority, said board bylaws prohibit the executive director from entering into contracts without board approval.

Bridwell said the board used a double standard in the contract matter. He said he had conferred with Harolan on the matter, and that the authority's secretary-treasurer, Paula Schuler of Granite City, had also signed the contract. Hoskin said he agreed the board was wrong to single out Bridwell for criticism on the matter.

While some of Bridwell's actions may have been inappropriate, other members haven't "done a halfway decent job," Hoskin alleged. "There have been violations of bylaws by nearly everybody," he said. Hoskin appeared to stun Davis and May with statements he made at the end of Thursday's meeting, when he announced he will resign.

One of the reasons he will resign is that the image of the housing authority is being harmed, Hoskin said. He said he could see himself fighting constantly in the future with other board members.

He said last Monday night's meeting had upset him emotionally and he decided the voluntary job was not worth it. That comment was similar to the statement made by former board chairman Manuel Kastin of Madison when he resigned last April. Kastin had been involved in controversy that surrounded the authority late last year and early this year, and had had strong disagreements with Hoskin.

The vacancy created by Kastin's resignation has never been filled. Housing Authority board members are appointed by the chairman of the county board, and must be approved by the Illinois Department of Local Government Affairs. Hoskin said that before he submits a letter of resignation, he will talk with Gene Brombolich, mayor of Collinsville, and Nelson Hagnauer, chairman of the county board.

If they indicate they will get involved in helping to solve what he sees as problems plaguing the Housing Authority, he may reconsider and not resign, Hoskin said.

Controversy within the authority came to light in September 1978 when the board disagreed with longtime executive director Edward Foley.

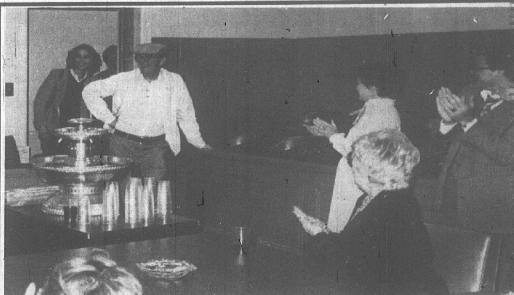

Hoskin said last week that he now blames the board and himself for not going through a proper evaluation procedure with Foley.

Finds youth inside home

Dorothy Renaud, 2541 E. 25th St., returned home at 12:10 p.m. Saturday to find a door of her home open. She yelled, "Who is there," and a youth, about 15 or 16 years old, came to the doorway of the dining room. She asked him what he was doing and he said the front door was locked, so he came around to the back door, she related.

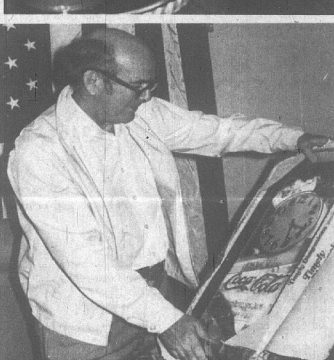

She ordered the youth out of the house and he ran towards Kirkpatrick Homes. She discovered several drawers in the dining room and bedroom had been opened and a clock radio had been moved from the bedroom to the hallway. Nothing is known missing. The youth was described as large, about 5 feet, five inches tall, having blond hair and wearing a baseball cap and two-tone jacket.

From TV set to book, back to TV set again

One evening, Jay S. Harris turned off his television set and wondered about what people watched 20 years ago at the same time.

The idea occurred to him that it would be fun to get a back copy of TV Guide for that week. That, in turn, led to getting a copy of TV Guide for every year since its inception, which engendered the final brainstrom — "It could be a book!"

Not only did the idea become a book, "TV Guide: The First 25 Years," but it will be a prime-time TV special, with Phil Donahue, Norman Lear and Bob Hope lending a hand, to air Sunday, Oct. 21, on NBC.

People get brainstorms every day, but few ever see them come to fruition. Ironically, since the publication of the book, several people have come up to Harris to tell him that they had thought of the same idea but had never done anything about it.

Harris is an attorney in the entertainment field. He went from Cornell University to New York University School of Law and then became an assistant district attorney in New York under the famed Frank Hogan. He is now in private practice.

When he first thought of the book, he called the editor-in-chief of Simon & Schuster, Michael Korda, to ask what he thought of the idea. Korda liked it and took it to TV Guide, which agreed to cooperate with the project.

Harris then sat down every night and weekend for half a year with a large, awkward microfilm machine (that became part of his living room decor) and read all 1,300 back copies of the magazine, picking the articles he felt best exemplified TV Guide and what had happened to television and the people who watched it.

Once production of the book was in the works, but before publication, Harris began the process of realizing a TV special based on the book. What he envisioned was something a little different than normal fare — a show that would objectively as well as entertainingly tell television's story from the point of view of the magazine.

The next step was signing Phil Donahue as host-narrator, his first prime-time outing. The show will use clips from current and past shows as well as memorable news and sports events. Among other guests who will appear are John Chancellor, Jesse Jackson, Carl Reiner, George C. Scott and the editors of TV Guide.

Seeing his conceptions turned first into a book and now into a TV special has been the experience of Harris's life. "I now understand better than ever the motivations and desires of my clients."

You've done a great job of taking care of your house all spring and summer. Now you'll be raking the leaves and getting ready for winter. It's no fun thinking about winter's chill — especially after the ones we've had recently. But that's all the more reason to take extra precautions this fall. Here are some tips for preparing your home and yard for the coming season.

Your property and move to out-of-the-way places rakes, jars and other objects that could cause injury if you accidentally step on them in the snow. You're protecting yourself and visitors by removing such potentially dangerous objects from places where you or others frequently walk by.

Bring your indoors all those paints and chemicals — like house paint, stain and driveway sealer — that could freeze. If you are not sure whether freezing will cause damage, check the label or ask at your hardware store. People usually remember to winterize their cars, but most forget to winterize their power tools. Check your owner's manual for instructions on storing your lawnmower, power edgers, sweepers, etc.

Have your gutters and downspouts cleaned. Clogged gutters can cause ice to back up, putting extra weight on your roof. Frozen downspouts may burst and make trouble when they fail to carry off the spring thaw.

Do not risk injury to yourself. If you haven't cleaned your gutters before, hire someone to do it for you.

Check the condition of your roof and that of your garage. It's separate from the house. You'll want to know the capacity of your roof to hold snow and how if you live in an area that gets heavy and accumulating amounts. Be especially careful in your use of ladders. Ladder falls are a major cause of serious injury around the house. Plant the ladder securely on the ground. Test it out for firmness before climbing, and have someone hold the ladder while you climb.

Do not, under any circumstances, try to reach beyond an easy grasp while you are on a ladder. No one likes to consider it, but fatalities occur from ladder falls either because the ladder itself is not safe or because the user was thrown off balance by reaching too far.

Finally, have your furnace cleaned and checked and the same for your chimney. These jobs should be done by experts.

Does it take a lot of work? It shouldn't take more than a couple of hours on weekend mornings, and it will leave you with a warm feeling that your property is ready to weather almost anything winter may bring.

Skills shown by Mitchell firefighters

EXTRICATING "VICTIM" in a simulated auto crash, Mitchell volunteer firemen show their expertise at the department's open house Saturday afternoon. Wooden blocks on the car hood keep it from collapsing and provide support so rescuers can use a Hurst emergency tool to pull the steering wheel from the victim's chest after peeling back the roof. Left

MAKE-BELIEVE SNOW. Mitchell firemen create a playground of foam, using five gallons of concentrate, for youngsters attending the Mitchell Volunteer Fire Department's open house Saturday. Balloons and firemen's plastic hats, worn by several children in the photo, were part of the National Fire Prevention Week event. Nearly 200 visitors inspected equipment during the day, interrupted only briefly by a call to a truck fire near Poag Road at 3 p.m. The department's jurisdiction extends north to the Hartford Canal, east to Sunset Hill Holiday Inn and the bluff road, west to the Mississippi River and south to Morrison Road and Route 203.

Two enroll at military school

Two Granite City area cadets are among 300 students registered at Missouri Military Academy for the 1979-80 school year. Missouri Military Academy at Mexico, Mo., founded in 1889, is an independent, non-profit, college preparatory school with an international enrollment of boys in grades 4 through 12 and a separate junior school for grades 4 through 8.

This year, the academy has enrolled students from 25 states and 11 different countries. It has earned an honor rating for the past 50 years and is fully accredited by the North Central Association of Colleges and Secondary Schools, the College Entrance Examination Board and the Independent Schools Association of the Central States.

Cadet Thomas Butler, an 11th grade student, is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald T. Butler, 1813 Spring Ave., and Cadet Scott Suverkrup, a 9th grade student, is the son of Mrs. Carol Swiatek, 33 Bermuda Lane.

DRIVER CHARGED

Gerald Seger, 32, of St. Louis was issued a traffic citation charging him with driving while intoxicated. An auto driven by Seger allegedly hit the rear of an auto driven by Daniel P. Langan, 17, of St. Louis. Both were northbound on Highway 111 at 12:05 a.m. Saturday and the Langan auto had stopped, for a stop sign, at the intersection of Highway 111 and Highway 162 struck. James Tucker, 18, of St. Louis, a passenger in the Langan car, was treated and released at Christian Northwest Hospital in St. Louis.

2 scuffle with policeman

Granite City Patrolman Fred Hoffman was injured and suffered a torn shirt when he scuffled with a young woman and a young man at Tri-Mor Bowl on Nameoki Road at 12:20 a.m. Sunday.

Hoffman said he was working security for the bowling lanes when he saw a young man leaving the bar area carrying two mixed drinks. He asked the young man if he had an identification card and the young man said he did not.

Hoffman then took the drinks back to the bar, it was reported. A young woman who was with the young man approached Hoffman and asked if her friend's money would be refunded. Told it would not be, the young woman allegedly began yelling profanities in the lounge area.

Hoffman said he grabbed the young woman's shoulder, but she pulled back and made an obscene gesture at Hoffman. He ordered her to leave the building and she walked toward the exit, but crumpled up a score sheet and threw it in Hoffman's face, it was reported.

Hoffman then grabbed her, but the young man interceded and Hoffman used force to try and subdue him, the officer said. While the two scuffled, the young woman allegedly kicked Hoffman's head. Patrolman J.W. Apperson arrived and assisted Hoffman in arresting the two.

Hoffman said the collar was torn off his shirt during the scuffle.

Charged with disorderly conduct were Tammara L. Lockhart, 18, and Michael E. Murphy, 20, both of St. Louis.

On Sunday, police added charges of battery and resisting arrest against Tammara Lockhart and a charge of obstructing a police officer against Michael Murphy. He was released on $35 cash bond at 10:20 p.m. Sunday and she was held in lieu of $300 cash bond.

Hold suspect in $1,300 theft

Granite City police are holding a 20-year-old Stronville, Ohio, man while they investigate his alleged confession that he stole $1,300 from a service station in Cleveland, Ohio.

The young man, who was transporting an automobile from Chicago to Granite City for a used car lot here was stopped by officers investigating ownership of the auto.

They found the auto was not stolen, but while questioning the driver, he allegedly said, "I might as well tell you. You are going to find out anyway," and confessed to the theft.

He said he was employed one day at the service station and at the close of the day, he took $1,300 from the safe and left town. Cleveland police said the crime had not been reported to them, but they would investigate.

Big federal funding for SIUE programs

Three federal grants totaling more than $600,000 have been awarded to SIUE to be administered under the direction of Emil Jason, assistant vice president for special programs and minority affairs. The grants will continue through June 1980.

The Department of Health, Education and Welfare has awarded $132,102 to be used by the Academic Resource Center (ARC). This center provides remedial and developmental programs for university students who qualify for the center's assistance.

Funds will be used to continue tutorial services in reading, English and mathematics. Supplemental assistance will also be given to ARC's other developmental programs, including pre-algebra and pre-English classes.

The Science Awareness Program has received $307,630 from the U.S. Office of Education for a project entitled "Developing Science Awareness and Capability in Low Income Students."

Sylvia Morgan, acting director, explained that the objective is to increase the number of students qualified to pursue science careers.

"We offer high school students the opportunity to take college level courses in this accelerated program. Many students cannot get a solid science background in high schools," she said.

She added that many students may be interested in science but do not have the background to pursue it successfully.

The program has been in existence five years. Courses in mathematics, English and science are offered, along with career counseling.

Arrest two in rail car looting

Keith L. Freeman, 17, of 907 Washington St., West Madison, and Gergory Allen Turner, 20, of 1108 Douglas St., Venice, have been charged with theft after they allegedly were seen removing several shop vacuum cleaners from a railroad car on an Illinois Central Gulf Railroad train stopped on a siding at the west end of Washington Street and 8:45 a.m. Thursday.

Members of the train crew alleged seeing at least four young men removing items from two piggy-back trailers on the train and they called Madison police.

Venice police aided and a Venice officer alleged seeing Freeman's car and Turner's auto leaving the area. The two men were charged and were released on notices to appear in court Oct. 26.

Broken into, besides the trailer of vacuum cleaners, was a U.S. Postal Service trailer, but it is not believed anything was taken, officials said.

Sues steel firm

Donald P. Wolf has filed a three count lawsuit, seeking $750,000 in each count, against the Granite City Steel division of National Steel Corp., and against P.F. Eads.

Wolf's suit contends that on March 22, 1978, he was employed by Insulating & Materials Corp. and was installing pipes at the steel company's coke ovens when a scaffolding he was standing on was struck by a crane and he was thrown to the ground. Eads was operating the crane, it is alleged.

PAINTER AT WORK. Sprucing up city hall is a job for a pro, and Linda Scaggs is just that. Despite her size, (5 feet 2 and 110 pounds), the brown eyed blonde swings a mean roller.

City Hall gets a face lift . . . from a lady

Photos and story by Cathey Jamison

She's a petite lady, standing 5 feet 2 and weighing 110 pounds, but when it's time to sling the brushes, Mrs. Linda Scaggs gets in there with the best of them.

She's a union painter, and she's sprucing up City Hall for Granite City's upcoming rededication of the facility as part of that building's and the Library's 50th anniversary.

At a time when more and more women are looking to the trades for ways to earn a living, Linda is not all that unique. But when she got her union card, it was another story.

As a mother with a daughter to support, she was looking for a good job. She walked into the painters' local one day and filled out an application. That was over a year and a half ago.

She was called a short time later and sent out with a permit, enabling her to paint until she got her union card.

Her first job as a painter was no picnic, far from it. She was sent to the Chain of Rocks Canal bridge on Interstate 270.

"The foreman took one look at me and laughed," she said. "He asked me what I was going to do there and I told him I was going to paint a bridge."

And paint a bridge she did. Linda's young daughter was proud of that accomplishment. Every time she sees the site of her mother's first job she says, "My Mom painted that bridge!"

Linda doesn't let her small stature slow her down. "I'm strong. I have a little difficulty throwing five-gallon containers full of paint and 40-foot ladders around, but I manage," she said.

The job at City Hall came through the street department. One of the regular painters was sick and Supt. Lionel Portell put in a call to the local. They sent Linda. No one was particularly surprised when 120 sent a woman painter. That sort of thing happens all the time these days in various fields. But there was a time, and Linda was one of the first to break the longstanding idea that one had to be male to be a journeyman painter. According to the looks of the work at City Hall, she's proving that the old idea "just ain't so."

Student loan plan may be revamped

A Senate subcommittee conducting hearings on a bill that would revamp the government's college student loan program last week heard Southern Illinois University Chancellor Kenneth A. Shaw testify that loans shouldn't become the sole source of a student's financing.

"Loans should, I believe, be viewed only as a part of the overall student financial aid program," Dr. Shaw said before Sen. Edward M. Kennedy's Subcommittee on Education of the Committee on Labor and Human Resources.

"Loans should not become the principal means of financing one's education," Shaw said. "The best guarantee of (college) access remains low cost."

Kennedy is a co-sponsor of the National Student Loan Reform Act, a bill that would largely replace government-subsidized bank loan programs and block-grant loan operations that date back to the Higher Education Act of 1965.

Linchpins of the existing federal loan structure are the General Student Loan (seven percent interest, maximum of $2,500) made through local banks but backed by the government, and the National Direct Student Loan (three percent interest, $600 to $700 maximum) made by campuses themselves from block grants provided by the government.

The Kennedy proposal, co-sponsored by Sen. Henry L. Bellmon (R-Okla.), would give qualified students seven percent loans up to any amount needed to attend school — minus scholarships or other financial help and parental assistance the student might have.

It would stretch out repayment time from 10 years after graduation to 25. It would in some ways peg the amount of paybacks to the graduate's income, and it would make the loans available through campus loan offices, not banks.

In another major part of the Kennedy-Bellmon package, parents themselves would be eligible for subsidized loans through private lenders — at 7 1/2 percent interest — to cover calculated parts of their own contributions to a son or daughter's college education.

A similar measure has been introduced in the House and has gained widespread support. It was introduced by Rep. William D. Ford (D-Mich.).

Dr. Shaw said the Kennedy-Bellmon proposal would eliminate many uncertainties students and families might have about financing an education, and would cut out some procedural red tape.

But he said raising the limits on borrowing would "remove one factor which has long been thought to keep tuition low — the ability to pay."

Shaw said if tuitions should go up in response to students' increased ability to pay, borrowing would jump, too, and graduates would be strapped with heavy repayment burdens after they left school. Another problem, he said, might be an "access barrier" for graduate and professional students, who would be paying interest on their loans from the time they get them.

"The legislation does not encourage graduate and professional education," Dr. Shaw said, "something which I believe should receive a higher priority."

Others who testified included Rep. Shirley Chisholm (R-N.Y.), Bellmon and Howard R. Swearer, president of Brown University.

A RE/MAX REPLY

In talking to many of you who are presently sales associates in real estate, we found that you felt RE/MAX was definitely the best deal in town. But some of you said that you were waiting to see just how well the office would take hold.

Well, first of all, it's the real estate sales associate that makes the office, not the office or broker that make a good sales associate.

The number of sales associates in any one office does not denote success. It's how well the associates are doing in the office that measures a successful operation.

Since our opening on August 1, Don Marcus, Louise Douglas and George Crews have signed on as RE/MAX associates. In just a little over 2 months, they have combined their efforts in securing over one million dollars in listings, and they have personally sold $255,500 worth of real estate to date.

There are now over 500 RE/MAX offices from coast to coast, but more importantly, the people working in these RE/MAX offices are earning an average of $31,000 net annually.

Isn't this enough proof to convince you that RE/MAX is the only way to go? While you're waiting, you're losing 50% of your income.

Call Mr. Becherer for more facts concerning your career with RE/MAX — A 100% commission company.

Excellent cottages for retirement or year round retreat. Good all weather roads to property. Great camping, fishing and hunting.

Property will be offered in individual parcels and then as a unit, going to the highest bidder. We reserve the right to accept or reject any or all bids.
